GUARDSMEN CALLED

Bayonets Bring Enforced Peace In Strike Town

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP) — Bayonet-wielding National Guardsmen brought an enforced peace Friday to this strike-divided town. The soldiers moved in when Gov. Orville Freeman declared martial law to halt two days of violence at the Wilson & Co. packing plant, scene of a bitter six-week old labor dispute.

The Guard dispersed massed pickets who had overturned and stoned cars of nonunion workers in two days of violence. It shut down production at the Wilson plant, Albert Lea's biggest employer. It forbade assembly of more than three persons near the plant or more than 50 persons anywhere in this prosperous, Christmas-decorated little southern Minnesota city.

COMMAND

The military took over command of all peace officers in Freeborn County, of which Albert Lea is the county seat, and suspended all court orders and actions pertaining to the dispute.

The striking union, United Packerhouse Workers Local No. 6, of which Albert Lea is the county seat, had made no move to challenge the troops' authority. First and only show of force by the guard was to disperse, at bayonet point, a group of several hundred workmen assembled at the main plant gate early Friday to hurl taunts at persons who showed up for work, unaware of the governor's midnight move.

"It makes a beautiful picket line, doesn't it?" said a union man of the line of soldiers.

Wilson President James C. Cooney of Chicago rushed to St. Paul and went into a closed-door session with Gov. Freeman. Wilson officials issued no statement on the martial law declaration, interpreting a military "request" to issue no statements to the press as an order.

Wilson has, however, pushed a program of operating the meat processing plant with nonunion labor after the union formally went on strike Nov. 3.

The old contract expired Sept. 1, and Wilson broke off negotiations Oct. 29 when union workers refused to work a nine-hour day. On the surface, wages are not a prime issue in the dispute. The firm later warned union workers to return to their jobs or be replaced. On Nov. 30 Wilson began production with nonunion help.

Butane Gas Touches Off Explosion Fear

SWAINSBORO, Ga. (AP)—Butane gas leaking from an 800-gallon tank touched off fears of an explosion in downtown Swainsboro Friday and a potential danger zone was evacuated.

Traffic was detoured from the center of the south Georgia city located along busy U.S. Highways 1 and 80. All available fire equipment was on a standby alert and additional firefighting units rushed here from Augusta, Ga., 80 miles to the north.

The fumes of inflammable butane became strong about noon. Alarm spread. Police set up safety lines after shoppers and workers were evacuated from the endangered area.

AREA

Fire Chief Paul Bell said the area included a department store, jewelry store, two drug stores, a clothing store and offices in several of the buildings.

The source of the leak could not be located immediately and firemen began removing the gas from the big tank with a 100-yard hose.

The tank was expected to be emptied by about 7 p.m. e.s.t. Until the source of the gas, a liquid in storage under pressure, was located and stopped Bell said the situation was potentially dangerous.

During the process of evacuation, Bell said "we are begging people not to strike matches. We're sitting on dynamite."

On Dec. 5, 1957, a gas explosion wrecked the downtown business section of Villa Rica, Ga., killing 12 persons. Last summer a freight train wrecked on a trestle at Mel-drum, Ga., and an explosion of butane tank cars killed 21 persons on a recreational beach and in the river below.

Votes Get Official Tabulation

Breakdown Released In Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (AP)—New Orleans Mayor de Lesseps Morrison led the Democratic first primary by 65,405 votes, complete returns in the secretary of state's office showed Friday.

The final tabulation, which became official when printed in the Baton Rouge States-Times, official state journal, gave Morrison 278,956 votes.

In second place was former Gov. Jimmie Davis with 213,551 votes. State Sen. William Rainach had 143,095, former Gov. James A. Noe 97,654, and William J. Dodd 85,426.

OTHERS

Others in the race for governor had these totals:

Holt Allen 4,106, Gale Berry 1,724, John B. Krey Jr. 2,587, Allen C. Lacombe 4,917, Mack P. Stewart Jr. 6,233, A. Roswell Thompson 4,200.

In the lieutenant governor race Alexandria Mayor W. George Bowdoin led with 227,758 votes, C. C. (Taddy) Aycock was second with 219,551, and Gov. Earl K. Long was third with 157,452.

Others: Cy Courtney 105,440, Frank A. Jordan Jr. 15,766, and William J. White 61,440.

Morrison and Davis met Jan. 9 in a runoff. In the Saturday primary a record 842,609 persons cast ballots for governor. The previous record set in 1956, it was 819,709. Secretary of State Wade Martin Jr. said the huge job of counting ballots that poured into his office from the state's 2,108 voting precincts was finished in four days. This, he said, was a new record for tabulation of a statewide vote.

Under the law, the secretary must complete the tabulation and publish the results in the official state journal within eight days after the election.

Martin said that the speed with

23 YEARS SINCE ABDICATION

Time Not Healing Royal Family Scar

LONDON (UPI) — Twenty-three years ago Friday the Duke of Windsor abandoned the throne of Britain for marriage to an American divorcee. Time has not yet healed the scars inflicted on the royal family.

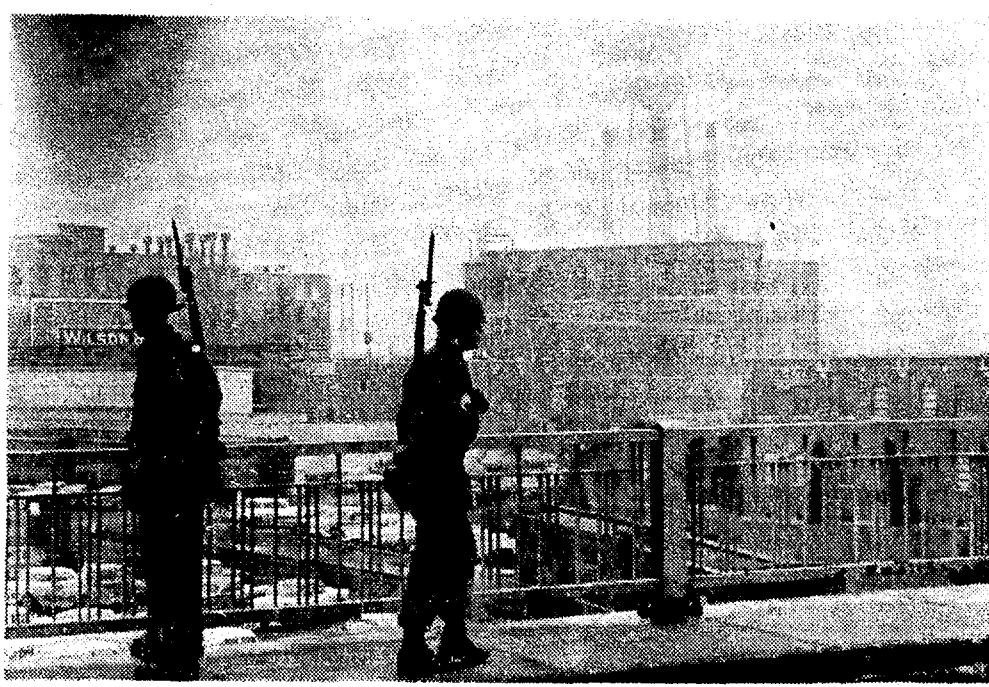

The Duke, who was King Edward VIII, and his duchess, the former Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, arrived here from their Paris home Friday for several days of shopping and visiting among old friends.

But a call at Buckingham Palace where his niece Elizabeth II now wears the crown, was not on the Duke's schedule.

He has visited her occasionally in the past, but the Duchess never has been received at any of the homes of the royal family.

The Duke is on fairly good terms with his relatives. It is evidently the duchess, who cannot find the acceptance without which HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Specialists were called in Friday night to consult with the physician of Walter W. Williams, 117, last surviving veteran of the Civil War.

Yuletide Spirit Left As Legacy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Christmas spirit left as a legacy by young Mike Rollins has become a shining memory here on the first anniversary of his death.

It has turned into a spirit of Christmas that prevails every day of the year, just as the 8-year-old leukemia victim would have hoped.

For the Christmas story he wrote accomplished some wonderful things beyond gaining the dream Mike had of becoming a real author.

Just before he died, Mike wrote a Christmas story and sent it to the Columbus Dispatch. It was the story of a poor woodcutter who sold Christmas trees to buy gifts for his children.

PUBLISH

The Dispatch published the story and the Associated Press relayed it to hundreds of other newspapers across the country. Mike, his parents and Children's Hospital were swamped with letters of sympathy from all parts of the nation.

The attention focused on Mike, who lived in Marion, Ohio, and his story led to establishment of a Mike Rollins Fund for a leukemia laboratory at Children's Hospital. It will be for basic research into the cause of the disease and possible cures.

Explanation Of Chicken Ban Given

Only Premium Priced Birds Got Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Friday that only premium-priced chickens — known as caponettes — were treated with a hormone which can cause cancer.

And officials added that not even all caponettes have been fattened with stilbestrol. Stilbestrol is a synthetic hormone that has been found to cause cancer in experimental animals and the government has arranged with the poultry and drug industries to halt its use in poultry.

When the voluntary ban was announced Thursday, it was asserted that the hormone has been used in only one per cent of the poultry raised in the United States — mostly in birds sold in the New York City and Los Angeles markets.

ADVICE

Acting Secretary of Agriculture Truc D. Morse advised consumers that regular broilers, fryers, roasting chickens and capons are not involved and can be purchased.

Hypnotic Sect Broken Up In Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — A pseudo-religious sect which practiced hypnotism, torture and black magic is an estate surrounded by an electrified barbed wire fence has been broken up and its leader placed under arrest. Swiss police announced Friday.

Police last week raided the secluded "Friedberg" — Mountain of Peace — estate at Lindenhof, a village 12 miles south of Bern, and found 68 men, women and children in various stages of hypnotic trance. Police Commissioner Ernst Spoerri told a news conference.

Spoerri said the group had been placed under a hypnotic spell by Paul Baumann, 42-year-old former mental home inmate. Baumann was arrested on charges ranging from interference with personal freedom to embezzlement.

Spoerri described some of the colorful details of last week's police raid: New disciples, usually introduced by "personal contact," were told they had been chosen by "magic white spirits" to join the community. They were made to swear an oath of eternal allegiance to the sect on an electrified magic book which sent a heavy charge through their bodies.

They then had to hand all their cash, jewelry and other belongings to Baumann. Spoerri said a small fortune

HANDS FILLED, HEARTS EMPTY Unwanted Receive Christmas Treat

NEW YORK (AP)—These were the abandoned ones, the unwanted. And that can't be easily changed. But little things can be done—something to bring a moment of light to their lives—especially at Christmas.

That was the objective Friday as 1,200 orphans received the gifts of a big Manhattan department store—each of them with $5 to spend.

Their Christmas shopping tour was financed by the New York Junior Chamber of Commerce. They were brought by bus from 23 orphanages, a throng of boys and girls, ranging in age from 6 to 15.

Some smiled and chatted. Others gazed about somberly, a little wide-eyed, as they were taken to the cafeteria in Macy's department store for breakfast.

Then each was given a sack of candy and cookies, and a $5 bill.

Another Dive Is Made By Kittinger

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP)—Capt. Joe Kittinger took another high dive from the edge of space Friday, jumping more than 12 miles from a balloon gondola to the desert floor.

Unlike his 14½ mile jump Nov. 16, a small parachute opened on schedule to prevent Kittinger from spinning around on his back—the way he made most of his first long parachute jumps.

"It's a little more difficult when you're spinning around on your back," the 31-year-old redhead said. "This jump was more enjoyable."

Kittinger jumped from 74,700 feet. After 18 seconds, a six-foot parachute opened to stabilize his fall, but did little to slow him. At 17,200 feet, the main 28-foot parachute blossomed automatically.

THOUGHTS

What did he think about during the approximately 10 miles of nearly free fall?

"Even though I was stabilized this time, I had quite a bit to do. I had a slight rotation to the left and had to keep working my feet to overcome it."

Was he scared? "If I didn't have confidence in the equipment, I wouldn't have gone up again."

Kittinger is making the high jumps for the Air Force's aeromedical laboratories at Wright Air Development Center, Ohio.

Declares India Faces Many Perils

NEW DELHI, India (AP)

— President Eisenhower called on the world to mobilize its science and resources in building weapons "mightier than arms and bombs"—weapons for a noble war against hunger.

Opening an American exhibit Friday showing the wonders of modern food production at the first World Agricultural Fair here, the President declared the United States and India are working together to whip this country's ever-present danger, famine.

A little later Prime Minister Nehru disclosed that he and his American visitor had discussed in broad terms another of India's big worries—the border dispute with Red China. He gave no details, but at the fair ceremony declared India is "poised on the edge of a sword, you might say, with many perils, many dangers" before her.

CENTER

The President still was the smiling, waving center of crowds of hundreds of thousands of adulating people. As Nehru expressed it, Eisenhower had "found an echo in the hearts of our millions."

He and Indian President Rajendra Prasad drove to the fair in a six-horse coach, escorted by 48 lancers uniformed in gold and black turbans with scarlet tunics and mounted on big chestnut chargers. Overhead Indian air force jets dipped in salutes.

A crowd of about 10,000 jammed about the entrance as the President arrived, and 50,000 more crowded about the yellow-draped speakers' stand in an enclosure inside. Among them were many of India's magnificently attired maharajas and maharanis. Onlookers crowded the roof of the nearby Supreme Court building.

An orchestra tinkled an accompaniment as schoolgirls, with a sing-song wail, recited a Sanskrit invocation and a song of welcome mentioned Eisenhower by name.

At the white marble and tile American pavilion the President declared its exhibits of farm machinery and techniques show that "men now possess knowledge and resources for a successful worldwide war against hunger—the sort of war that dignifies and exalts human beings."

Bus Driver Saves 45 Lives In 3 Minutes

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — A woman school bus operator had less than three minutes to save 45 lives Friday after her bus stalled on a crossing in the path of a train. "That was time enough for Enda Neuman, the bus driver, despite beginnings of panic among her charges, girls en route to classes at Mallinckrodt High School in nearby Wilmette.

Mrs. Neuman's bus was struck and smashed by a Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railway electric interurban train. But she and the girls were safely out by then.

A school bus driver for two years, Mrs. Neuman, 37, gave this account of the crisis. Her bus had stalled about 100 feet from the crossing. Another school bus, in which Charles Baner was driv-

Explanation Of Chicken Ban Given

Only Premium Priced Birds Got Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Friday that only premium-priced chickens — known as caponettes — were treated with a hormone which can cause cancer.

And officials added that not even all caponettes have been fattened with stilbestrol.

Stilbestrol is a synthetic hormone that has been found to cause cancer in experimental animals and the government has arranged with the poultry and drug industries to halt its use in poultry.

When the voluntary ban was announced Thursday, it was asserted that the hormone has been used in only one per cent of the poultry raised in the United States — mostly in birds sold in the New York City and Los Angeles markets.

ADVICE

Acting Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse advised consumers that regular broilers, fryers, roasting chickens and capons are not involved and can be purchased.

Hypnotic Sect Broken Up In Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — A pseudo-religious sect which practiced hypnotism, torture and black magic is an estate surrounded by an electrified barbed wire fence has been broken up and its leader placed under arrest, Swiss police announced Friday.

Police last week raided the secluded "Friedberg"—Mountain of Peace — estate at Lindenberg, a village 12 miles south of Bern, and found 68 men, women and children in various stages of hypnotic trance. Police Commissioner Ernst Spoerri told a news conference.

Spoerri said the group had been placed under a hypnotic spell by Paul Baumann, 42-year-old former mental home inmate. Baumann was arrested on charges ranging from interference with personal freedom to embezzlement.

Spoerri described some of the colorful details of last week's police raid: New disciples, usually introduced by "personal contact," were told they had been chosen by "magic white spirits" to join the community. They were made to swear an oath of eternal allegiance to the sect on an electrified magic book which sent a heavy charge through their bodies.

They then had to hand all their cash, jewelry and other belongings to Baumann. Spoerri said a small fortune

Yuletide Spirit Left As Legacy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Christmas spirit left as a legacy by young Mike Rollins has become a shining memory here on the first anniversary of his death.

It has turned into a spirit of Christmas that prevails every day of the year, just as the 8-year-old leukemia victim would have hoped.

For the Christmas story he wrote accomplished some wonderful things beyond gaining the dream Mike had of becoming a real author.

Just before he died, Mike wrote a Christmas story and sent it to the Columbus Dispatch. It was the story of a poor woodcutter who sold Christmas trees to buy gifts for his children.

PUBLISH

The Dispatch published the story and the Associated Press relayed it to hundreds of other newspapers across the country. Mike, his parents and Children's Hospital were swamped with letters of sympathy from all parts of the nation.

The attention focused on Mike, who lived in Marion, Ohio, and his story led to establishment of a Mike Rollins Fund for a leukemia laboratory at Children's Hospital. It will be for basic research into the cause of the disease and possible cures.

Another Dive Is Made By Kittinger

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP)—Capt. Joe Kittinger took another high dive from the edge of space Friday, jumping more than 12 miles from a balloon gondola to the desert floor.

Unlike his 14 1/2 mile jump Nov. 16, a small parachute opened on schedule to prevent Kittinger from spinning around on his back—the way he made most of his first long parachute jump.

"It's a little more difficult when you're spinning around on your back," the 31-year-old redhead said. "This jump was more enjoyable."

Kittinger jumped from 74,700 feet. After 13 seconds, a six-foot parachute opened to stabilize his fall, but did little to slow him. At 17,200 feet, the main 28-foot parachute blossomed automatically.

THOUGHTS

What did he think about during the approximately 10 miles of nearly free fall?

"Even though I was stabilized this time, I had quite a bit to do. I had a slight rotation to the left and had to keep working my feet to overcome it."

Was he scared?

"If I didn't have confidence in the equipment, I wouldn't have gone up again."

Kittinger is making the high dives for the Air Force's aeromedical laboratories at Wright Air Development Center, Ohio.

District Judge Held Prisoner

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Sugarman found out Friday what it's like to be a prisoner.

His honor was held captive 40 minutes by a balky self-service elevator in the Manhattan Federal Building.

HANDS FILLED, HEARTS EMPTY

Unwanted Receive Christmas Treat

NEW YORK (AP)—These were the abandoned ones, the unwanted. And that can't be easily changed. But little things can be done—something to bring a moment of light to their lives—especially at Christmas.

That was the objective Friday as 1,200 orphans roamed the aisles of a big Manhattan department store—each of them with $5 to spend.

Their Christmas shopping tour was financed by the New York Junior Chamber of Commerce. They were brought by bus from 23 orphanages, a throng of boys and girls, ranging in age from 6 to 15.

Some smiled and chatted. Others gazed about somberly, a little wide-eyed, as they were taken to the cafeteria in Macy's department store for breakfast.

Then each was given a sack of candy and cookies, and a $5 bill.

They deployed throughout the giant store with its 2,012,000 square feet of bright, new wares.

They swarmed the toy department. "Lookie! Look what I got!" The shouts rang out here and there. "Hey, Joe, come look at this here thing. What makes it work?"

But many of the youngsters sought out the clothing departments. Some even tested the soft couches in the furniture section, and ran their fingers along the slick shiny surfaces of the tables.

Twenty-four of them lost their $5 funds before they could be spent, but sponsors replenished the losses. If some of them were a little short for a chosen purchase, clerks chipped in the extra.

The store also gave each of them a coloring set. It took the

Declares India Faces Many Perils

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Eisenhower called on the world to mobilize its science and resources in building weapons "mightier than arms and bombs"—weapons for a noble war against hunger.

Opening an American exhibit Friday showing the wonders of modern food production at the first World Agricultural Fair here, the President declared the United States and India are working together to whip this country's ever-present danger, famine.

A little later Prime Minister Nehru disclosed that he and his American visitor had discussed in broad terms another of India's big worries—the border dispute with Red China. He gave no details, but at the fair ceremony declared India is "poised on the edge of a sword, you might say, with many perils, many dangers" before her.

CENTER

The President still was the smiling, waving center of crowds of hundreds of thousands of adulating people. As Nehru expressed it, Eisenhower had "found an echo in the hearts of our millions."

He and Indian President Rajendra Prasad drove to the fair in a six-horse coach, escorted by 48 lancers uniformed in gold and black turbans with scarlet tunics and mounted on big chestnut chargers. Overhead Indian air force jets dipped in salutes.

A crowd of about 10,000 jammed about the entrance as the President arrived, and 50,000 more crowded about the yellow-draped speakers' stand in an enclosure inside. Among them were many of India's magnificently attired maharajahs and maharanis. Onlookers crowded the roof of the nearby Supreme Court building.

An orchestra tinkled an accompaniment as schoolgirls, with a sing-song wail, recited a Sanskrit invocation and a song of welcome mentioning Eisenhower by name.

At the white marble and tile American pavilion the President declared its exhibits of farm machinery and techniques show that "men now possess knowledge and resources for a successful worldwide war against hunger—the sort of war that dignifies and exalts human beings."

Bus Driver

Saves 45 Lives In 3 Minutes

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — A woman school bus operator had less than three minutes to save 45 lives Friday after her bus stalled on a crossing in the path of a train.

That was time enough for Enda Neuman, the bus driver, despite beginnings of panic among her charges, girls en route to classes at Mallinckrodt High School in nearby Wilmette.

Mrs. Neuman's bus was struck and smashed by a Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railway electric interurban train. But she and the girls were safely out by then.

A school bus driver for two years, Mrs. Neuman, 37, gave this account of the crisis. Her bus had stalled about 100 feet from the crossing. Another school bus, in which Charles Baner was driv-

Candidates Get Set For Runoff

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Former Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, bidding for the backing of top losing candidate William Rainach, Friday extolled the state senator's first primary campaign in the Louisiana Democratic gubernatorial race.

Meanwhile, Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans said he was disappointed at Davis' refusal to debate. He also took issue with Davis' statement he doesn't want the vote of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The two will be in a showdown runoff for the governorship Jan. 9, Morrison led by 65,000 votes in the first primary.

Davis said in Mansfield he never differed with segregationist leader Rainach on "causes he supported so deeply." Rainach ran third with 143,000 votes.

"I have made it clear I am not interested in the support of the NAACP or James' Hoffa or of any communist dominated organization," said Davis.

He added he wanted the support of every other state group. Davis said he deplored "wild accusations and unfounded charges," which he said were characteristic of Morrison's campaign.

Morrison said Davis' refusal to debate is typical of his thinking that by "avoiding an issue, he can make it go away."

Morrison, in Lake Charles, said Davis actively sought and got the support of the NAACP's woman's state chairman, Mrs. Dorothea Combre of Lake Charles.

"Only yesterday, her front lawn was literally covered with pictures of Davis," said Morrison. "But before the newspapers could get over to take a picture, she had them removed."

On the endorsement scene, Davis received the backing of Baton Rouge's sixth district committee for Rainach.

Morrison got these new supporters: defeated independent voting machine custodian candidate Jerry Bennett; William Dodd's co-campaign manager in New Orleans, Councilman Fred Cassberry; and Dodd's asst. New Orleans labor campaign manager, C. Paul Barker.

Flemming himself said he had been assured that a retailer can identify the birds involved either through their labeling or because they command a premium, or higher price.

Spoerri said the disciples were nearly all in a state of fear and complete subjection to Baumann. They included a 15-year-old girl and Baumann's own 25-year-old wife. Most of the disciples were Swiss, but they also included a few Germans.

Examining Magistrate Hans Althus said the raid could not be regarded as an interference in religious freedom, which is guaranteed by the Swiss constitution.

"We had to act because the sect was a danger to the general public," he said. "Chosen members could enter freely, but once they were inside they were deprived of their free will and could no longer leave."

Votes Get Official Tabulation

which the tabulation was completed was even more remarkable because of the record size of the ballot. There were 51 names of state office candidates on the ballots, including those running for the newly elective offices of insurance commissioner and custodian of voting machines.

Martin said, "This was the largest and most difficult ballot to handle in Louisiana's election history."

"We could not have finished the job so quickly without fine cooperation from election commissioners in all the parishes who mailed their returns to this office so promptly."

"I also wish to acknowledge the valuable aid in tabulation given by auditors and accountants from the office of the supervisor of public funds, state insurance department and the director of the budget. They, along with our staff, worked long hours to process returns as quickly as they were received."

Martin said the official returns mates half the normal production force of 1,050, were besieged nearly three hours in the plant Wednesday night by 1,000 massed, rock-throwing pickets. Several cars were overturned, many others damaged by rocks. Three or four persons received minor injuries. These same workmen entered and left the plant Thursday to a hail of rocks and shouts. Local authorities then appealed to the governor.

All contributions sent to Goodfellow, in care of the News-Star, will help needy people. At least $5,000 is needed, officials said, but $6,000 would more adequately fit the purpose.

"My mother and father have separated and I have five brothers and four sisters. We are not on the welfare, therefore we can't get any money until our Mother works," writes a 16-year-old girl. "Please help me, if you can, by sending us some food, clothing or toys, or anything," she adds.

A woman writes on behalf of a 60-year-old widow. "She has three children living, all have families, but they have helped out as much as they possibly could."

"She has no means of income whatsoever, as the welfare has refused to help her. She is not able to work and she really needs help. Groceries are what she needs most," the friend states.

Another woman states that her husband has been unable to work since July, due to a back injury. "Christmas will be poor without some help. I have a heart condition and have to have medicine all the time. Groceries would be a big help, if we could get them. Clothes would be appreciated, but food is the most needed."

While pleas for help continued to come to Goodfellow headquarters, there were volunteer forces at work seeking to bring holiday cheer to many persons.

Louisiana Popularity

Louisiana is the most popular state in a seven-state mid-south area, according to population estimates made by the census bureau. This was indicated by the lowest migration figure, the highest population gain in numbers and the highest percentage gain for the period between April 1, 1950, and July 1, 1958.

Strangely enough, two states bordering on Louisiana suffered the greatest migration losses. They were Arkansas, which topped the area and the nation as a whole with a migration loss of 422,000 civilians. Mississippi was next with a loss of 373,000. Louisiana lost only 85,000 by migration and this was so far offset by population gains that the state showed a net gain of 404,000 and a percentage gain of 15.8. This not only was more than twice the net gain of any other state in the seven-state area but was above the national average increase of 15 per cent.

Migration losses in the seven-state area were listed by numbers as follows: Arkansas, 422,000; Alabama, 366,000; Kentucky, 256,000; Louisiana, 85,000; Missouri, 139,000; Mississippi, 373,000 and Tennessee, 262,000.

Allowing for births, deaths, migration and immigration during the eight years, the bureau estimated Arkansas suffered a net loss of only 175,000 civilians and Mississippi a net loss of only 24,000. Louisiana showed a net gain of 404,000; Alabama, 85,000; Kentucky, 128,000 and Tennessee 169,000.

Arkansas had a net percentage loss of 8.3 per cent and Mississippi had one per cent. Net gains for other states in the area were shown as follows: Alabama, 3.3; Kentucky, 4.8; Louisiana, 15.8; Missouri, 6.6 and Tennessee, 5.4.

No reason was given by the census bureau for the increases and losses in population. The reasons, of course, were that civilians saw advantages in the states to which they migrated or in which they remained.

Louisiana showed the best advantage in every way, with the smallest migration loss and the greatest population gain, both in numbers and percentage-wise.

Generally, the population increase could be said to be good for Louisiana, since the more people there are the more money that is likely to be spent. Louisiana largely escaped the rather serious recession of 1958 and so did some of the other mid-south states. That recession hit the industrial east and north far harder than the mid-south area.

There are some, however, who do not view the Louisiana population gain with as much favor as do others.

Louisiana has become known as the most lavish welfare state in the south, if not in the entire United States. Because of that, those on relief in this state have been loath to leave, while those in other states not receiving relief have looked enviously this way and thousands upon thousands have come into the state.

A state's representation in the national house of representatives is determined by its population and, in that way, a big population is an advantage.

Nevertheless, Louisiana should maintain some sort of balance in the amount of relief money it expends. To gain a large population entirely through inducing indigents to come to this state for free support would be certain to compel this state to levy higher taxes than do other states. Louisiana taxes are already among the highest in the nation.

Free Radio Bouncer

An open invitation to scientists around the world to bounce radio signals off three huge inflatable spheres this country will launch into orbit 1,000 miles above the earth has been extended by the United States government.

Most of the nations of the world, including Russia, have shown more cooperation in the matter of space exploration than in almost any other matter, although the international agreement on the handling of the Antarctic region was another example of good international cooperation. The United States has always taken the lead in trying to promote scientific advancement for the whole world and its action in offering use of its spheres to other countries is not surprising.

Whether any nation can keep other nations from making use of the objects it projects into space is questionable. Since the objects, such as the spheres are out in space, there would seem to be no way to prevent any nation from using them as bouncer station, even if the launching nation desired to do so.

Aluminum-coated spheres, each as tall as a 10-story building, will be used in what the national aeronautics and space administration described as an experiment in global communication. The balloon-like satellites, 100 feet in diameter but weighing only 150 pounds, will be similar to one inflated 250 miles above Wallops Island, Va., October 28.

The first of the three Project Echo spheres will be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., next spring, probably in March. They will be by far the largest objects ever sent aloft to such heights. The spheres are so large and so light and so responsive to even the lightest breeze that they can never be inflated on the ground. Instead, they are folded inside containers 28 inches in diameter and are inflated only upon reaching their assigned altitude.

To get many scientists of other nations interested in helping with Project Echo, the aeronautics and space administration dropped its usual pre-launching secrecy.

Most of the world's leading scientists are interested in pure science for its own sake. They look upon international politics, bickerings and war as far less interesting and less important than science itself.

The first inflated satellite will pass over much of the inhabited parts of the earth, including all countries 50 degrees north and 50 degrees south latitude and over every part of the United States except Alaska.

The space administration said the sphere would reflect 98 per cent of radio transmissions up to frequencies of 4,000 megacycles a second.

Several things are emphasized by the American plans to launch the spheres and by the government's invitation to scientists of the whole world to participate in the experiments.

One is that the United States is awakening to the part it must play in scientific and space development and exploration.

Another is that distance limitations on radio broadcasting have to do with the curvature of the earth will soon be a thing of the past.

Still another is that scientific advancement is bringing closer cooperation among the nations of the world.

From an immediate, close-range viewpoint, this cooperation may be the most important of all.

Peoples of the world are always looking for something to conquer. If they can conquer space and move on to undreamed-of advancement in scientific achievement, there will be less need and less desire for them to conquer each other.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Birth Control Problem

One Reason For Current Excitement Is That Reports Of Explosion Of Population Persists

Politics sometimes crosses over the line into morals; morals too seldom influence politics.

Birth control is a moral issue for the individual. The Roman Catholic Church forbids mechanical means of birth control; all states of this country have made abortion illegal except when performed to save the life of the mother. In some countries, mechanical means for controlling birth are publicly and openly sold; in some abortions are not illegal.

One of the reasons for the current excitement over birth control is that there have been reports on the dangers of the "population explosion" which, it is said, is taking place. By that, it is meant that suddenly too many people are born and too few die and that therefore it will come to pass that there will not be sufficient food to feed the whole of mankind.

Another reason for the current excitement over this issue is that Senator John F. Kennedy is an aspirant for the democratic nomination for the presidency and Senator Kennedy is a Roman Catholic. His prospects are better than had been anticipated and those who oppose him or who oppose Roman Catholics per se would like to damage him. Also some Roman Catholics say that this is not the right time for a Catholic to run for president.

The birth control matter had ballooned into a political issue. Fortunately, President Eisenhower, who cannot run again constitutionally, is above this sort of politics. He said:

"... We do not intend to interfere with... the internal affairs of any other government, and if they want to do... something about what is admittedly a very difficult question... that is their business. And, if they want to go to someone for help... they will go unquestionably to professionally groups, not to governments."

Senator Kennedy's comment was more succinct:

"... we have to be very careful about how we give advice on this subject. The United States government does not advocate any policy concerning birth control here in the United States. Nor have we ever advocated such a policy in western Europe."

Accordingly, I think it would be the greatest psychological mistake for us to appear to advocate the limitation of the black or brown or yellow peoples whose population is increasing no faster than in the United States. They must reach decisions on these matters based on their own experience and judgment."

The Neo-Malthusians, as they are called, are very worried about the unusual increase of population during the 20th century, particularly in the years subsequent to World War II. They fear that the food supply of the world will not be sufficient to feed this increasing population.

Two factors must be noted:

1. All world figures for population are rough estimates. No accurate, scientific census has ever been taken in China. It is used to be that the estimate was based on counting chimneys and multiplying them by five. Only 30 years ago, it was estimated that the population of China was about 400,000,000. Today the figure given is 600,000,000. One figure is as accurate as the other.

2. While better methods have been employed in India and in some of the African countries, the figures remain estimates or educated guesses.

As the Asiatic and African populations have frightened the Neo-Malthusians more than the increases in Europe and the United States, it is very doubtful that they have absolute figures to sustain their fears. Furthermore, the food supply of the world is increasing. The United States has such a plethora of production that it is holding in a wasteful stockpile $9,000,000,000 or price-supported farm products and the amount is increasing by about $3,000,000,000 annually. The 1958 price-supported crops cost the Commodity Credit Corporation $2,696,000,000 for the 1958-9 fiscal year.

Wheat and rice production, not including Soviet Russian figures, are on the rise throughout the world. Undoubtedly the Russian figures, when available, will show a rise because of the great effort put forth in that country not only to improve the crop but to open new lands to agriculture. The Sahara will ultimately mature into an area similar to the Imperial Valley of California.

In a word, there is no statistical evidence to be convincing that man will starve himself out of existence unless he practices birth control. It is a pity that this very complicated question arises during a political campaign in order to defeat one candidate.

Missiles' Labels

Where Do Names Like Wagtails, Crossbows, Snarks Originate

If you ever wondered where the Pentagon dreams up missile names like Wagtails, Crossbows and Snarks, you're not the only one. The Pentagon is beginning to wonder, itself.

The flood of missiles and rockets — many of which work — has spawned a whole new vocabulary of names for well-read readers to remember if they can. Some, like "Jupiter," are household words of the space age. Others, like "Green Quail" are deliberately obscure.

A full list of missile names reads like a Martian menagerie, or sometimes like a page of "Alice in Wonderland." One rocket, the Snark, is actually named for a fictitious monster, created by the author of "Alice," — Lewis Carroll.

Who names the missiles that are flying through our skies? Some detective work at the Pentagon provides few definite answers, so far as the Army and Air Force are concerned.

With the Navy it is a different story. The Navy has always gone by the book, and sure enough there is a book to cover missile baptisms.

It all depends on the use of the missile or rocket. A Navy air-to-air rocket is named for a winged creature who is not a bird of prey. An Air-to-Surface missile receives the name of a bird that is a bird of prey, like the Eagle.

A Navy spokesman admits, however, that "We have sometimes deviated from this rule." He had just been asked how the Holy Moses fitted the pattern. Perhaps because of its name, the Holy Moses project has been discontinued.

With the Army and Air Force, almost anything goes. Back in 1947, a top-level all-service Pentagon committee attempted to set up a regulation to cover the naming pattern. Only the Navy has stuck to the committee's recommendations.

About the only trend in missile names is a fondness for Greek and Nordic mythology, which shows up in Jupiter, Juno, Atlas, Titan, and Thor.

These names are not code words, like Overlord and Omaha which designated operations during World War II, but each missile name is checked against a master list of code words kept in a Pentagon vault to guard against duplication.

A great many of the missile names are coined long before there is any missile even on the drawing boards. They are devised as handy terms to describe the general type of missile or rocket which is needed.

Some of these names are highly imaginative — and very appropriate. A typical example is the "Sidewinder," which like a snake can almost literally see in the dark. As a rattlesnake has two extra "eyes" sensitive only to heat, the rocket has a similar device to determine the direction of enemy jet exhausts.

The Wagtail, still under development, is another instance of the appropriate naming by some forgotten engineer. This is a missile which — like the legendary Civil War general — can ride off in all directions. It is designed to swerve, dodge, and backtrack on its way to the target and thereby befuddle enemy countermeasures. The Dervish is a similar device.

As a missile's design progresses, the name will stick to it, often despite attempts to impose a more serious and dignified title. For instance, the Air Force "Hound Dog" has survived all efforts at name-changing. How the name got started is a complete mystery, since the missile is a 40-foot, very lethal weapon designed to be launched by attacking airplanes as much as 300 miles away from the target. Some of the names obviously spring from American idiom, like the Honest John, a good, sturdy Army rocket. Honest John has fathered a number of descendants, including the Little John and the Chopper John — the last a rocket launched from helicopters.

"Honest John," according to the best Pentagon information, was first coined by Engineers developing the missile at White Sands, New Mexico. "Bomarc" can be pinned down as the initials of Boeing Michigan Air Research Corporation. "Minute Man" was also named by the Boeing Company.

Just when you think you're beginning to perceive some pattern in this business, however, along comes a list of new devices the scientists are concocting. The latest entries in the missile race include Shillelagh, Lulu and Davy Crockett. If the Pentagon knows where the names came from it isn't telling.

Reasoning Is Pacific States Demonstrate Where U.S. Going

Bus-borne in North Carolina — Foreign visitors to America, it has been seriously suggested, should always be shown the West Coast before they're allowed to see the East Coast. The reasoning is that the Pacific States demonstrate where America is going, while the Atlantic States demonstrate where she's been.

My own theory and experience are that the nation's past is a good deal more noble and cheerful than the future. A four-day bus trip, southbound from Washington, confirms old impressions and engenders some new ones. In keeping with local customs, the ideas deserve to be segregated.

Colored Only: Although the Northern agitators for Negro rights have gone far toward making the black man "modern" and "equal," they have collaterally deprived him of a priceless birthright — his side-splitting funniness. A group of raffish, ragamuffin colored men and women boarded the bus at Kingston (N.C.) and helped themselves to seats in front of this traveler. For the next 40 minutes there was an unheard-of minstrel show which only this kind of native talent could supply. One woman told a story in dialect amid earthy guffaws that drew reproaches. It seems she went to her dentist to have a tooth pulled. He said he would charge $2 for the extraction and $2 for penicillin. While weighing this bargain, the woman tested the moorings of the bad tooth and it came out in her hand. There followed a comedy scene of inimitable mirth and buffoonery. The dentist had tried to charge for "consultation," but the patient took off and ran howling into the street.

White Only: From Tuesday through Saturday, ladies in Colonial costumes show tourists (at $2 per head) through the Governor Tryon Palace at New Bern (N.C.). The Palace and its grounds, which are wholly surrounded by a 9-foot brick wall, present a magnificent job of restoration by private and State endowment of over a million dollars. Well, one night last week a cruising taxicab driver heard human wails coming from the dark interior of the renovated 18th century grandeur. The cabbie (who told me the story) was understandably alarmed and mystified. But he drew his vehicle to the curb and shouted "Who's there?" It turned out that two tourist couples were getting their money's worth of sightseeing when closing hour came.

"They were the same as in jail," observed the cabbie. "There was no gettin' over those walls. But I called on my radio, and after a while the police fetched one of the ladies with the keys."

Segregation, although abolished in the buses, goes on at the bus stations and the schools. From roadside observation the school-houses for both races are new, functional and "equal." In one town where I spent the night, educational funds are economized by using student drivers for the school buses. Nobody seemed to think that the students shouldn't be helpful in their own behalf.

Throughout the non-industrial South there must be thousands of cabins and shacks, with outdoor plumbing, but with television antennas on the roofs and automobiles parked in the yards. The foreign visitor would certainly find poverty here, and would certainly find Southerners of both races with very backward ideas about social progress.

Louisiana Popularity

Louisiana is the most popular state in a seven-state mid-south area, according to population estimates made by the census bureau. This was indicated by the lowest migration figure, the highest population gain in numbers and the highest percentage gain for the period between April 1, 1950, and July 1, 1958.

Strangely enough, two states bordering on Louisiana suffered the greatest migration losses. They were Arkansas, which topped the area and the nation as a whole with a migration loss of 422,000 civilians. Mississippi was next with a loss of 373,000. Louisiana lost only 85,000 by migration and this was so far offset by population gains that the state showed a net gain of 404,000 and a percentage gain of 15.8. This not only was more than twice the net gain of any other state in the seven-state area but was above the national average increase of 15 per cent.

Migration losses in the seven-state area were listed by numbers as follows: Arkansas, 422,000; Alabama, 366,000; Kentucky, 256,000; Louisiana, 85,000; Missouri, 139,000; Mississippi, 373,000 and Tennessee, 262,000.

Allowing for births, deaths, migration and immigration during the eight years, the bureau estimated Arkansas suffered a net loss of only 175,000 civilians and Mississippi a net loss of only 24,000. Louisiana showed a net gain of 404,000; Alabama, 85,000; Kentucky, 128,000 and Tennessee 169,000.

Arkansas had a net percentage loss of 8.3 per cent and Mississippi had one per cent. Net gains for other states in the area were shown as follows: Alabama, 3.3; Kentucky, 4.8; Louisiana, 15.8; Missouri, 6.6 and Tennessee, 5.4.

No reason was given by the census bureau for the increases and losses in population. The reasons, of course, were that civilians saw advantages in the states to which they migrated or in which they remained.

Louisiana showed to the best advantage in every way, with the smallest migration loss and the greatest population gain, both in numbers and percentage-wise.

Generally, the population increase could be said to be good for Louisiana, since the more people there are the more money that is likely to be spent. Louisiana largely escaped the rather serious recession of 1958 and so did some of the other mid-south states. That recession hit the industrial east and north far harder than the mid-south area.

There are some, however, who do not view the Louisiana population gain with as much favor as do others.

Louisiana has become known as the most lavish welfare state in the south, if not in the entire United States. Because of that, those on relief in this state have been loath to leave, while those in other states not receiving relief have looked enviously this way and thousands upon thousands have come into the state.

A state's representation in the national house of representatives is determined by its population and, in that way, a big population is an advantage.

Nevertheless, Louisiana should maintain some sort of balance in the amount of relief money it expends. To gain a large population entirely through inducing indigents to come to this state for free support would be certain to compel this state to levy higher taxes than do other states. Louisiana taxes are already among the highest in the nation.

Free Radio Bouncer

An open invitation to scientists around the world to bounce radio signals off three huge inflatable spheres this country will launch into orbit 1,000 miles above the earth has been extended by the United States government.

Most of the nations of the world, including Russia, have shown more cooperation in the matter of space exploration than in almost any other matter, although the international agreement on the handling of the Antarctic region was another example of good international cooperation. The United States has always taken the lead in trying to promote scientific advancement for the whole world and its action in offering use of its spheres to other countries is not surprising.

Whether any nation can keep other nations from making use of the objects it projects into space is questionable. Since the objects, such as the spheres are out in space, there would seem to be no way to prevent any nation from using them as bouncer station, even if the launching nation desired to do so.

Aluminum-coated spheres, each as tall as a 10-story building, will be used in what the national aeronautics and space administration described as an experiment in global communication. The balloon-like satellites, 100 feet in diameter but weighing only 150 pounds, will be similar to one inflated 250 miles above Wallops Island, Va., October 28.

The first of the three Project Echo sphere will be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., next spring, probably in March. They will be by far the largest objects ever sent aloft to such heights. The spheres are so large and so light and so responsive to even the lightest breeze that they can never be inflated on the ground. Instead, they are folded inside containers, 28 inches in diameter and are inflated only upon reaching their assigned altitude.

To get many scientists of other nations interested in helping with Project Echo, the aeronautics and space administration dropped its usual pre-launching secrecy.

Most of the world's leading scientists are interested in pure science for its own sake. They look upon international politics, bickerings and war as far less interesting and less important than science itself.

The first inflated satellite will pass over much of the inhabited parts of the earth, including all countries 50 degrees north and 50 degrees south latitude and over every part of the United States except Alaska.

The space administration said the sphere would reflect 98 per cent of radio transmissions up to frequencies of 4,000 megacycles a second.

Several things are emphasized by the American plans to launch the spheres and by the government's invitation to scientists of the whole world to participate in the experiments.

One is that the United States is awakening to the part it must play in scientific and space development and exploration.

Another is that distance limitations on radio broadcasting having to do with the curvature of the earth will soon be a thing of the past.

Still another is that scientific advancement is bringing closer cooperation among the nations of the world.

From an immediate, close-range viewpoint, this cooperation may be the most important of all.

Peoples of the world are always looking for something to conquer. If they can conquer space and move on to undreamed-of advancement in scientific achievement, there will be less need and less desire for them to conquer each other.

Birth Control Problem

One Reason For Current Excitement Is That Reports Of Explosion Of Population Persists

Politics sometimes crosses over the line into morals; morals too seldom influence politics.

Birth control is a moral issue for the individual. The Roman Catholic Church forbids mechanical means of birth control; all states of this country have made abortion illegal except when performed to save the life of the mother. In some countries, mechanical means for controlling birth are publicly and openly sold; in some abortions are not illegal.

One of the reasons for the current excitement over birth control is that there have been reports on the dangers of the "population explosion," which, it is said, is taking place. By that, it is meant that suddenly too many people are born and too few die and that therefore it will come to pass that there will not be sufficient food to feed the whole of mankind.

Another reason for the current excitement over this issue is that Senator John F. Kennedy is an aspirant for the democratic nomination for the presidency and Senator Kennedy is a Roman Catholic. His prospects are better than had been anticipated and those who oppose him or who oppose Roman Catholics per se would like to damage him. Also some Roman Catholics say that this is not the right time for a Catholic to run for president.

The birth control matter had ballooned into a political issue. Fortunately, President Eisenhower, who cannot run again constitutionally, is above this sort of politics. He said:

"... We do not intend to interfere with... the internal affairs of any other government, and if they want to do... something about what is admittedly a very difficult question... that is their business. And if they want to go to someone for help... they will go unquestionably to professionally groups, not to governments..."

Senator Kennedy's comment was more succinct:

"... we have to be very careful about how we give advice on this subject. The United States government does not advocate any policy concerning birth control here in the United States. Nor have we ever advocated such a policy in western Europe."

Accordingly, I think it would be the greatest psychological mistake for us to appear to advocate the limitation of the black or brown or yellow peoples whose population is increasing no faster than in the United States. They must reach decisions on their own experience and judgment."

The Neo-Malthusians, as they are called, are very worried about the unusual increase of population during the 20th century, particularly in the years subsequent to World War II. They fear that the food supply of the world will not be sufficient to feed this increasing population.

Two factors must be noted:

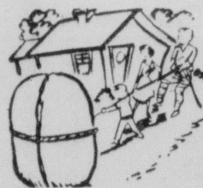

1. All world figures for population are rough estimates. No accurate, scientific census has ever been taken in China. It used to be that the estimate was based on counting chimneys and multiplying them by five. Only 30 years ago, it was estimated that the population of China was about 400,000,000. Today the figure given is 600,000,000. One figure is as accurate as the other.

2. While better methods have been employed in India and in some of the African countries, the figures remain estimates or educated guesses.

As the Asiatic and African populations have frightened the Neo-Malthusians more than the increases in Europe and the United States, it is very doubtful that they have absolute figures to sustain their fears. Furthermore, the food supply of the world is increasing. The United States has such a plethora of production that it is holding in a wasteful stockpile $9,000,000,000 or price-supported farm products and the amount is increasing by about $3,000,000,000 annually. The 1958 price-supported crops cost the Commodity Credit Corporation $3,696,000,000 for the 1958-9 fiscal year.

Wheat and rice production, not including Soviet Russian figures, are on the rise throughout the world. Undoubtedly the Russian figures, when available, will show a rise because of the great effort put forth in that country not only to improve the crop but to open new lands to agriculture. The Sahara will ultimately mature into an area similar to the Imperial Valley of California.

In a word, there is no statistical evidence to be convincing that man will starve himself out of existence unless he practices birth control. It is a pity that this very complicated question arises during a political campaign in order to defeat one candidate.

Missiles' Labels

Where Do Names Like Wagtails, Crossbows, Snarks Originate

If you ever wondered where the Pentagon dreams up missile names like Wagtails, Crossbows and Snarks, you're not the only one. The Pentagon is beginning to wonder, itself.

The flood of missiles and rockets — many of which work — has spawned a whole new vocabulary of names for well-read readers to remember if they can. Some, like "Jupiter," are household words of the space age. Others, like "Green Quail" are deliberately obscure.

A full list of missile names reads like a Martian menagerie, or sometimes like a page of "Alice in Wonderland." One rocket, the Snark, is actually named for a fictitious monster created by the author of "Alice," — Lewis Carroll.

Who names the missiles that are flying through our skies? Some detective work at the Pentagon provides few definite answers, so far as the Army and Air Force are concerned.

With the Navy it is a different story. The Navy has always gone by the book, and sure enough there is a book to cover missile baptisms.

It all depends on the use of the missile or rocket. A Navy air-to-air rocket is named for a winged creature who is not a bird of prey. An Air-to-Surface missile receives the name of a bird that is a bird of prey, like the Eagle.

A Navy spokesman admits, however, that "We have some, times deviated from this rule." He had just been asked how the Holy Moses fitted the pattern. Perhaps because of its name, the Holy Moses project has been discontinued.

With the Army and Air Force, almost anything goes. Back in 1947, a top-level all-service Pentagon committee attempted to set up a regulation to cover the naming pattern. Only the Navy has stuck to the committee's recommendations.

About the only trend in missile names is a fondness for Greek and Nordic mythology, which shows up in Jupiter, Juno, Atlas, Titan, and Thor.

CLOTHES Make Your Man

By Harry Juster

DEAR MR. JUSTER: There are certain customs that don't make sense to me. One is tipping your hat when meeting or passing a friend of the female sex. Would you mind telling me just how this foolish custom got started?

Anti Hat Tipper
This all started in the days of King Arthur when shining suits of armor were worn by the Ivy set of Sherwood forest and helmets covered the face as well as the noggin. It became a healthy habit to lift the visor of the helmet to remove immediately any doubt of being friend or foe. So when you doff your hat, you're not particularly complimenting the ladies as much as following a custom begun by the knights of old. Actually, not such a bad custom, is it?

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My boy friend was quite taken with a beautiful pair of pajamas we saw in a men's shop window. I decided they would make an excellent Christmas present. The trouble is I'm stumped as to what size to get. In what way do you determine this?

Helen C.
The easiest way is to ask him. I know, this would take away the surprise when he opens his gift, so try to learn his shirt size. (Will he be astonished when he gets pajamas?) Usually if he wears 14-15 shirts he takes size A pajamas; 15-15 1/2 - size B; 16-16 1/2 - size C; 17 and up - size D. If under 5 feet, he takes a "regular." Over this height, ask for a "long."

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My husband considers himself dressed up when wearing a sport coat and slacks. When he is dressed in sport clothes and I am in a smart dress I feel we look rather ridiculous together. I've finally convinced him he should have at least one all-occasion suit. What do you recommend?

Mrs. H.A.
Good for you. For general all-around wear I'd suggest an unfinished worsted which has a slight nap or a hard-finished sharkskin. Dark gray or blue look well night or day. Not knowing his height or weight, it's difficult to advise the model. Have him try both natural shoulder and continental styles and then decide which does most for him.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Our Dad bought an olive and brown suit. We heard him tell our mother that he doesn't have anything to wear with it. For Christmas we thought he'd enjoy getting a shirt, tie and maybe a handkerchief for this suit. Only, we don't know what color to pick. Can you help us?

Two Teen-agers
Certainly. Get an eggshell or soft maize color shirt, a green and red foulard tie and either green - or red-patterned handkerchief that picks up one of the shades of the tie. Wrap neatly. Carefully place under the tree. Then watch the hit this will make with your Dad.

TIP FOR THE DAY
Very Little of You Shows
We're not saying that what shows from the neck up isn't important, but outside of that portion and the bit extending from your coat sleeves, the rest of you is covered. This is what his observer's eye. Pick this "covering" carefully so that it's a compliment to what you have from the neck up.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. His new leaflet, "Knotty Problems" will show you how to get an attractive knot in your tie, whether it's a four-in-hand or a bow. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet. Address Harry Juster in care of this paper.

NEXT WEEK: Juster gives his opinion of the black look.

Miller said, "to see to it that judges serve not only with integrity but with diligence, dispatch and courtesy."

In another talk, J. J. Davidson Jr. of Lafayette said voters would resent political dictation or selfish suggestions from anyone.

He said judicial candidates are unknown to many conscientious and independent voters "and the qualifications to be considered depend upon expert and professional experience and knowledge."

The House of Delegates of the Louisiana State Bar Assn. approved a proposed change in state legislative procedure to authorize the house of delegates to meet during any regular session of the Legislature to examine any proposed legislation and promote or oppose such legislation.

Another resolution adopted by the House of Delegates proposed a constitutional amendment to provide effective waiver of the state's immunity from suit, and to draft and submit appropriate implementing legislation.

Four Classes At Northeast Pick Officers

Jerry D. Crooks of Dry Prong was elected president of the freshman class at Northeast Friday, winning over five other persons in the race.

Crooks polled 66 votes to 51 for his nearest rival, Ralph Allen of Shreveport. Only a plurality vote was necessary to win. More than 620 students turned out to elect a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of each of the four classes.

In the sophomore class John James of Columbia was elected president by a 99 to 51 vote over Dan Sampson of Monroe.

George Bryan of Monroe was named president of the junior class by a 54 to 36 vote over W. J. Marchbank of Wichita Falls, Tex., his only opponent.

Floyd Ham of Monroe was unopposed as president of the senior class.

RUNOFF
One runoff will be necessary. Norma Lea Brewer of Jonesville and John Leist of Monroe each polled 68 votes for treasurer of the sophomore class. Shirley Lamb of Kilbourne was third with 58 votes.

Winners of other races who had opposition: Freshman vice president—Jerry Godwin of Shreveport; freshman secretary—Linda Rogers of Monroe; and freshman treasurer—Kathleen Shirley of Bastrop.

Candidates without opposition: Junior secretary—R. D. Williams of Bastrop; junior treasurer—James David Bruno of Bastrop.

Senior secretary—Alice Hance of Monroe; senior treasurer—E. A. Craven of Monroe.

Young's Mother Relieved At His Recapture

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The mother of American soldier of fortune Austin Young Jr. said Friday she is "very relieved" that he was recaptured by Cuban authorities.

Mrs. Austin Young Sr. called Young's escape from prison "a very foolish thing."

Young was sentenced Tuesday to 30 years in prison for activities against the Cuban government. He escaped Wednesday from the prison at Pinar del Rio and was recaptured Thursday in a Havana hotel.

"This ends the waiting and worrying," said Mrs. Young when she heard the news of her son's arrest.

"This escape was a very foolish thing, very foolish. I can't understand why he did it. He should never have tried it. We felt so thankful when the death sentence wasn't imposed."

Mrs. Young, wife of a wealthy retired General Motors executive, said she and her husband would make no efforts to obtain their son's release.

"We feel our duty now is to his wife and children," she said. "We've done everything we could for him, and naturally we're still concerned. But now we feel his wife and family need our help and we're going to think of them first."

City Schedules Sale Of Bonds
The Monroe City Council Friday set Jan. 12 as the date for sale of $5 1/2 million in bonds for the Utilities Commission to finance the power plant expansion program.

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said advertising will be begun for bonds and that they will be opened when the council meets Jan. 12.

The installation of a new gas turbine will boost the plant capacity from 44,500 KW to 66,500, or enough power to provide the city with electricity through 1965, officials said.

Man Outlines How He Killed Houma Doctor

HOUMA, La. (AP)—A 21-year-old man told police today he beat a 38-year-old doctor to death during a robbery attempt.

Marion Soidnier of St. John, La., admitted the fatal beating of Dr. Hanson Dupont, a 1944 graduate of the Tulane medical school. The doctor's body was found wedged between two buildings early today.

Terrebonne Parish coroner Dr. Saul Landry Jr., said the doctor died of a skull fracture and multiple facial fractures, apparently after a severe beating. Sheriff A. P. Prejean said the killer used a tire tool or a length of pipe.

Soignier told police he and some companions were drinking and gambling last night. Soignier said he met the doctor at one of the taverns, left the building with Dupont. When Soignier returned, he told his drinking partners he had robbed the doctor and hit him "four or five times," the sheriff said.

Soignier said he picked up a couple of barmaids in a foreign car after he left his companions. Sheriff's deputies checked one of the bars and found that Soignier had left with two women. They checked the house where the women lived and found Soignier in bed with the girls.

Officers found blood on the bumper of the car Soignier used and also found Dr. Dupont's wallet and part of a key chain in the car.

Butcher Hogs Close Lower On Weak Mart

CHICAGO (AP)—After holding steady through midsession, the market for butcher hogs weakened Friday and closed as much as 50 cents lower.

With only a limited demand for the supply of 7,000 head, the top price fell to $12.85, the lowest peak in more than 3 1/2 years, but buyers said offerings of the kind which brought $13.00 Thursday were absent.

The week's supply of 56,000 was only 500 less than the year's high total of last week.

Offerings under 220 lbs and grading No. 1 were scarce and sold with mixed 1s and 2s at $12.65-12.85. Other weights of mixed grades up to 220 lbs went at $11.75-12.75. Heavier kinds sold down to $10.00 for 330 lb mixed 2-3 grades.

Sows were mostly steady, clearing at $8.00-10.00.

There were not enough slaughter steers or heifers on sale to test the market for those classes and no sales were reported for either. Vealers and bulls were quoted steady. Bulls were $19.00-20.50 for utility and commercial grades, vealers $22.00-27.00 for standard and good.

In the sheep market, the few mixed good and choice wooled slaughter lambs brought $16.50-18.00, ewes $3.50-5.00.

Qualification Of Judges Is Topic

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Ben R. Miller, Baton Rouge attorney, said Friday members of the bar should pass on whether judges are qualified to seek reelection.

Miller told the ninth Louisiana Conference of local bar associations that appropriate bar groups should poll members on judges' qualifications and either endorse or oppose them for a new term.

Miller, vice chairman of the state bar's committee on jurisprudence and law reform, said a policy of organized support by the bar for the qualified incumbent judge would encourage his removal from factional politics upon going on the bench.

CLOTHES Make Your Man

By Harry Juster

DEAR MR. JUSTER: There are certain customs that don't make sense to me. One is tipping your hat when meeting or passing a friend of the female sex. Would you mind telling me just how this foolish custom got started?

Anti Hat Tipper

This all started in the days of King Arthur when shining suits of armor were worn by the lvy set of Sherwood forest and helmets covered the face as well as the noggin. It became a healthy habit to lift the visor of the helmet to remove immediately any doubt of being friend or foe. So when you doff your hat, you're not particularly complimenting the ladies as much as following a custom begun by the knights of old. Actually, not such a bad custom, is it?

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My boy friend was quite taken with a beautiful pair of pajamas we saw in a men's shop window. I decided they would make an excellent Christmas present. The trouble is I'm stumped as to what size to get. In what way do you determine this?

Helen C.

The easiest way is to ask him. I know, this would take away the surprise when he opens his gift, so try to learn his shirt size. (Will he be astonished when he gets pajamas!) Usually if he wears 14 - 14½ shirts he takes size A pajamas; 15 - 15½ size B; 16 - 16½ size C; 17 and up size D. If under 6 feet, he takes a "regular". Over this height, ask for a "long."

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My husband considers himself dressed up when wearing a sport coat and slacks. When he is dressed in sport clothes and I am in a smart dress I feel we look rather ridiculous together. I've finally convinced him he should have at least one all-occasion suit. What do you recommend?

Mrs. H.A.

Good for you. For general all-around wear I'd suggest an unfinished worsted which has a slight nap or a hard-finished slackskin. Dark gray or blue look well night or day. Not knowing his height or weight, it's difficult to advise the model. Have him try both natural shoulder and continental styles and then decide which does most for him.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Our Dad bought an olive and brown suit. We heard him tell our mother that he doesn't have anything to wear with it. For Christmas we thought he'd enjoy getting a shirt, tie and maybe a handkerchief for this suit. Only, we don't know what color to pick. Can you help us?

Two Teen-agers

Certainly. Get an eggshell or soft maize color shirt, a green and red foulard tie and either green - or red-patterned handkerchief that picks up one of the shades of the tie. Wrap neatly. Carefully place under the tree. Then watch the hit this will make with your Dad.

TIP FOR THE DAY

Very Little of You Shows We're not saying that what shows from the neck up isn't important, but outside of that portion and the bit extending from your coat sleeves, the rest of you is covered. This is what hits the observer's eye. Pick this "covering" carefully so that it's a compliment to what you have from the neck up.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. His new leaflet, "Knotty Problems" will show you how to get an attractive knot in your tie, whether it's a four-in-hand or a bow. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet. Address HARRY JUSTER in care of this paper.

NEXT WEEK: Juster gives his opinion of the black look.

Miller said, "to see to it that judges serve not only with integrity but with diligence, dispatch and courtesy."

In another talk, J. J. Davidson Jr. of Lafayette said voters would resist political dictation or selfish suggestions from anyone.

He said judicial candidates are unknown to many conscientious and independent voters "and the qualifications to be considered depend upon expert and professional experience and knowledge."

The House of Delegates of the Louisiana State Bar Assn. approved a proposed change in state legislative procedure to authorize the house of delegates to meet during any regular session of the Legislature to examine any proposed legislation and promote or oppose such legislation.

Another resolution adopted by the House of Delegates proposed a constitutional amendment to provide effective waiver of the state's immunity from suit, and to draft and submit appropriate implementing legislation.

Four Classes At Northeast Pick Officers

Jerry D. Crooks of Dry Prong was elected president of the freshman class at Northeast Friday, winning over five other persons in the race.

Crooks polled 66 votes to 51 for his nearest rival, Ralph Allen of Shreveport. Only a plurality vote was necessary to win.

More than 620 students turned out to elect a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of each of the four classes.

In the sophomore class John James of Columbia was elected president by a 99 to 51 vote over Dan Sampson of Monroe.

George Bryan of Monroe was named president of the junior class by a 54 to 36 vote over W. J. Marchbank of Wichita Falls, Tex., his only opponent.

Floyd Ham of Monroe was unopposed as president of the senior class.

RUNOFF

One runoff will be necessary. Norma Leff of Jonesville and John Leist of Monroe each polled 68 votes for treasurer of the sophomore class. Shirley Lamb of Kilbourne was third with 58 votes.

Winners of other races who had opposition:

HOLIDAY TREAT

Orphans' Day Set At Northeast State

Thursday, December 17, has been officially proclaimed "Northeast Orphans' Day" by Dr. George T. Walker, president of the college.

First staged on the campus in 1957, the annual event brings a large number of orphan children from two area orphanages to Northeast college, where each child is "adopted" for the day by a college couple.

A full schedule is planned for the young visitors and their foster parents this year, according to members of the Student Council, sponsors of the project.

ACTIVITIES

Included in the Orphans' Day activities will be a stage show, a Christmas luncheon in the college cafeteria, and a festive Christmas party in the Student Center, when gifts will be handed from beneath the big tree by Santa Claus, who is slated to be the special guest of the evening. Children will come to the campus by bus from the Baptist Children's Home in Monroe and from the Methodist Children's Home in Ruston. Chaperones from each home will accompany the children.

The superintendents of both orphanages, D. C. Black of Monroe, and Rev. C. B. Black of Ruston, expressed the importance of the occasion for everyone concerned.

the children and the college students as well.

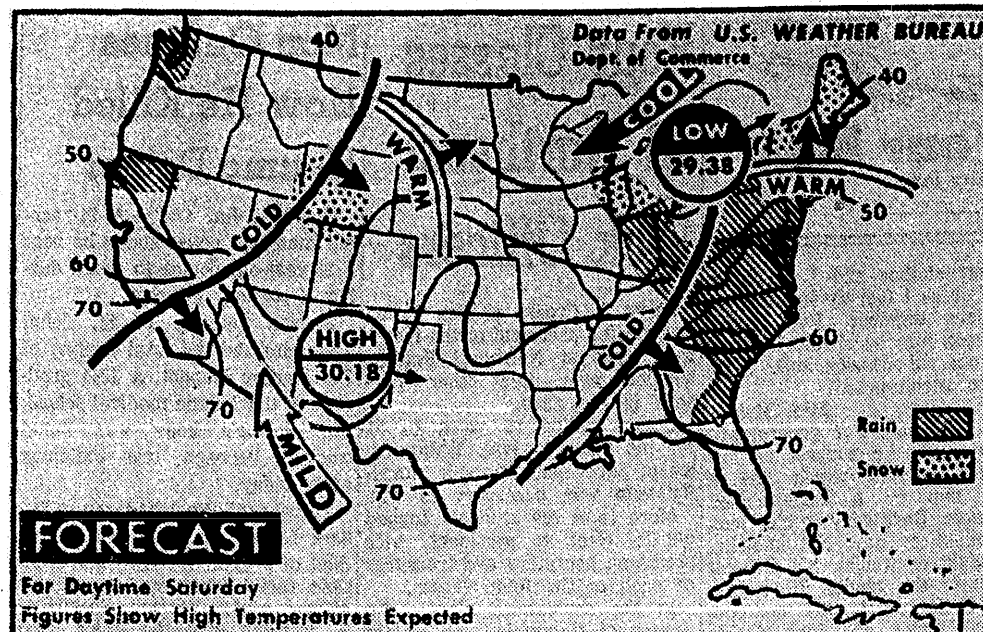

Approximately 100 children are expected to arrive on the college campus at 3:30 p.m. Thursday. Couples at Northeast are scheduled to begin signing "adoption papers" Monday, the Student Council said.

The parent couple will meet their child shortly after arrival on the campus. Following a brief introduction concerning the evening's planned program, the parents and children are given a "free time" period during which they may do what they wish or go where they choose.

Following this, the group is to meet in Brown Auditorium for a stage show performance in honor of the visitors. After the stage show, a holiday luncheon is scheduled in the college cafeteria.

From the cafeteria, the group will gather in the Student Center for the Christmas party, when presents to the youngsters will be handed out from their respective parents.

Orphans' Day on the college has become one of the most cherished traditions on the campus. Council members explained. More orphans than usual are being brought to the campus this year so that more college students may participate in the project, they said.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is expected Saturday in upper portions of northern New England, eastern New York state, the western Great Lakes and Wyoming. Rain is forecast for most of the Atlantic coast states except Florida, in the Ohio and Tennessee valleys, western Washington and northern California. It will be colder in Missouri, Arkansas and from the Dakotas westward to the Pacific coast, warmer in the central Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Ex-Candidate Joins Staff Of Area Sheriff

WINNSBORO (Special)—Sheriff Hiram B. Waller announced Friday that J. W. "Kit" McCain has been employed as criminal deputy effective Jan. 10.

Sheriff Waller is in the runoff with A. J. "Steve" Stephens in the Jan. 9 second primary. In the first primary, Waller got 2,333 votes; Stephens 1,673 and McCain 1,611. The other five candidates polled a total of 794 votes between them.

McCain has five years experience as a state trooper and has been engaged in farming, trucking, salesmanship and merchandising.

DEFEATED

He was defeated by Waller eight years ago. McCain said that "I have accepted the position of criminal deputy sheriff of Franklin Parish effective Jan. 10."

"I sincerely express my appreciation and thanks for the 1611 persons who voted and supported me in the first primary and I now earnestly solicit their vote and support for the re-election of Sheriff Hiram B. Waller on Jan. 9."

Waller said there had never been any personal differences between he and McCain, but that their differences had been only political.

The sheriff said that he will announce in a few days who McCain will replace.

Waller is seeking his fourth term and his opponent, Stephens, is seeking his first term. Stephens is a Winnsboro businessman.

Waller's present term expires June 10.

Wreck Victim's Family In Need

A Delhi man, Carl Hognans, was still unconscious last night at St. Francis Hospital following a traffic accident Dec. 2 in which he sustained a brain injury and two broken jawbones, a friend of the family reported.

Hognans was injured about two and one-half miles west of Delhi when the auto he was driving collided with a truck.

According to the friend, the family is in need of funds. He said contributions could be mailed in care of Carl Hognans, Rt. 2, Delhi.

Theft Charge

Monroe Police Friday arrested Lillie Lee Wilson, 34, Negro, 810 Calypso St. on a charge of theft. Police chief James C. Kelly charged that the woman shoplifted about $3.00 worth of meat and cigarettes from Childs on Louisville Ave. at 7:05 p.m.

date was set for Feb. 12. James Roosevelt, Negro, will be tried on the same date on two charges: gambling and illegal carrying of a weapon.

Colvin Colvin Jr. drew a $25 fine and costs or 10 days for driving without a chauffeur's license.

Four men were charged with reckless driving: John T. Folk, fined $50 or 10 days; Archie E. Perry Sr., trial date Feb. 12; Worth A. Walters and Sid Lee Webb, each fined $25 or 10 days.

Cases against Leland E. Roush, and Earnest Cary Roush, charged with taking rabbits at night with a headlight and gun, were continued without date. Leland Roush is also charged with driving without a license.

J. C. Sanders will be tried Feb. 12 on a charge of simple obstruction of a highway of commerce. Major Tippet was fined $25 or 10 days for driving with defective brakes.

Theft charges were dismissed against J. D. Porter and Charlie B. Watwood.

No action was taken against Josephine Thomas, on bond, listed on the docket as charged with being an accessory after the fact.

DISTRICT COURT

Burglaries Here Bring Sentences

Breaking into the same drug store twice brought Richard Jones, 26, Monroe Negro, two four-year sentences in the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola yesterday.

Judge Jesse Heard sentenced Jones in Fourth District Court for burglarizing Spatafora's Pharmacy at DeSiard and N. Eight Streets. The terms will run concurrently.

Another Negro, Marsh Joshua, alias Tom Whitley of Black Bayou Rd. was remanded to the Ouachita parish jail for pre-sentencing investigation, after he admitted burglarizing Payne's Fishing Camp on Black Bayou twice — Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

John Henry Johnson, Negro was fined $100 or 30 days in jail for resisting an officer.

PLEAS ENTERED

Of 15 cases set for trial, one was tried and guilty pleas were entered in two others.

George Moore Jr., Jeremiah Moore, Joe Newton Jr., Harold Wright and Tom Wright all were tried and found innocent of disturbing the peace.

Doctors Sloat, Murphy and Harvey are chiropractors, indicted by the Grand Jury several months ago. Their case is now under study by federal court, after it was argued in an appeal in New Orleans on Nov. 13.

Local authorities had expected a decision on the case by now, so the three men were listed on yesterday's docket. However, the case is being postponed until the federal decision is revealed.

One case set for trial was called on by Joseph I. Porter, charged with driving with switched license plates.

Trial date for H. B. Tripp and Edward Perry, each charged with simple burglary, was set for Feb. 16.

They are charged along with James Lee Wactor.

Wactor, now under observation for sanity in the East Louisiana State Hospital at Jackson, also is charged with the aggravated rape of a young South Monroe housewife at 6:30 a.m. on Sunday, Nov. 1.

ON DOCKET

A New Orleans resident, Wactor, was apprehended at a local hotel later the same morning.

Nigeria Slated To Elect Solons

By LYNN HEINZERLING
LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigeria, the most populous nation in Africa and potentially the most powerful, will choose its first House of Representatives Saturday. There are nine million registered voters to name the 312 members.

The party or coalition winning 157 seats will lead this old British colony of 35 million inhabitants to freedom in less than 10 months.

Freedom is not the issue in the election. The British government already has promised that will be granted.

What really is at stake is the selection of the personality who will emerge to lead Nigeria into the challenges and dangers of the 20th century.

Out of the blend of political sophistication, tribal squabbling and borrowed slogans which made up the six-month election campaign, only three or four possibilities moved strongly out in front. They are:

1. Sandauna of Sokoto, aristocratic spiritual leader, Prime Minister of the northern region and president of the Northern Peoples Congress.

Sandauna, it is said, would prefer eventually to become Sultan of Sokoto rather than enter tough political wars in Lagos. He is not contesting for a seat but if he changed his mind this undoubtedly could be arranged through the resignation of a follower and an election.

2. Alhadi Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, present Prime Minister of Nigeria.

Balewa is deputy leader of the Northern Peoples Congress and is the nominee of Sandauna as prime minister in the present government. He is credited with conducting the office ably but has held himself aloof from external politics which will play a large part in the new job.

3. Chief Obafemi Awolowo, Prime Minister of Nigeria's western region and head of the powerful action group which has brought such innovations as skywriting into the current campaign.

Awolowo, 51, is a loyal member of the Yoruba tribe of western Nigeria and a successful lawyer at Ibadan. He is a farmer's son who saved enough money to go to England to study law.

4. Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, Prime Minister of the eastern region and president of the National Council of Nigeria and the Cameroons. Azikiwe, known as Zik, is a political leader of impressive talent and has played an important part in Nigeria's fight for independence. A member of the Ibo tribe, he studied in the United States and taught four years at Lincoln University. He is publisher of a group of newspapers and is interested in other businesses.

Azikiwe has aligned the NCNC with northern elements of the Progressive Union which is the principal opposition of Sandauna in the northern region where more than half the population lives.

There are 174 constituencies in the northern region. Breaking the hold Sandauna has in that area, the most underdeveloped part of the country, has occupied both Awolowo and Azikiwe. Awolowo is trying to do it by contesting all seats and Azikiwe by aligning his party with Progressive Union which is contesting 149 seats there.

With various smaller parties and independents there are 936 candidates for the 312 seats. Because the estimates of the literacy rate in Nigeria run no higher than 15 per cent, and some Nigerians fix it at 7 per cent, the vote will be by symbols.

All parties favor remaining in the British Commonwealth and the issues generally are local and tribal in nature. All the parties are oriented toward the West and there is no legal Communist issue.

The director of the Emporium said the items sent included gold and silver embroidered saris from Banares, raw silk, a number of "kashmiri namdas" (woolen carpets), fine filigree silver earrings, and printed silk fabrics for dresses.

Barbara still was suffering from a slight cold which caused her to sniff and repeatedly use a handkerchief.

"She is the most charming lady who has ever walked into our shop," said one sales clerk.

PARTLY DUE TO LAYOFFS

Jobholders Ranks Make Big Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported Friday that the number of Americans holding jobs dropped by 1,191,000 last month, partly due to layoffs in autos and other industries hit by strike-induced steel shortages.

However, under the government's formula, the number of persons actually counted as unemployed increased by only 388,000—or 200,000 less than normal for November. Total unemployment stood at 3,670,000 and the number of employed persons at 63,640,000.

The Labor Department said official unemployment did not rise as much as expected partly because fewer women and teenagers than usual were looking for Christmas jobs. Since they did not seek employment, they were not counted on the jobless rolls.

One government economist ventured the opinion that unemployment would have risen only slightly if the steel strike had not forced layoffs in allied industries. Strikers are not counted as unemployed, but men forced out of work in other industries are.

One of the major reasons for the 1,191,000 drop in employment was a decline of 523,000 farm jobs as the harvest season drew to a close. Total non-farm employment fell by 667,000, with "a substantial proportion" of the decline being attributed to layoffs in autos and other metal-working industries.

The Labor Department's report came just 24 hours after the government temporarily abandoned efforts to seek a settlement of the steel dispute. Federal mediators said in breaking off union-management talks Thursday that no substantial progress had been made.

One reason for the suspension was to allow Steelworkers President David J. McDonald to sit in on negotiations in Chicago with aluminum manufacturers. The steel talks may be resumed in a week or 10 days, depending on aluminum developments.

Several government economists said the November job report was affected by a variety of cross currents. But generally, they said, it showed the economy on dead center, neither rising nor falling.

The government's estimates were compiled a few days after the steelworkers returned to their jobs under an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction issued Nov. 7. Some 375,000 had returned to the mills at the time. But they had been counted as employed all along.

Despite the strike, the total employment figure of 63,640,000 was a record high for November even though it fell from October. On the other hand, the number of jobless was the second highest total for any November since World War II.

The work week of factory production employees declined by 24 minutes to 39.9 hours, chiefly because of a cut of four hours in auto plants. Hourly earnings increased by two cents to $2.23, reflecting the return of steelworkers to their relatively high paid jobs.

Police Blotter

CHARGED

Two Monroe men were charged Friday by Monroe Police with operating motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. Both are scheduled to be tried in municipal court next week.

They were identified as Herman T. Baker, Negro, 33, No. 4 Edna Street; and Tommy S. Smith, 32, 1401 South Seventh Street.

IN CUSTODY

Monroe Police Friday reported they were holding a Jackson, Miss., man, Edgar Berry, on a charge of being absent without leave.

Police said he was taken into custody driving an automobile, which had been reported stolen earlier.

Berry is also charged with auto theft.

Negotiators Try To Find Agreement

CHICAGO (UPI) — Negotiators of Reynolds Metals and Kaiser Aluminum companies prepared Friday to join aluminum industry representatives trying to hammer out new contracts with David J. McDonald's United Steelworkers Union.

A spokesman for the Reynolds bargaining team said it would meet soon, possibly Saturday, with USW officials who represent 8,000 Reynolds Aluminum workers in six states.

The Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation was expected to join the closed door sessions Saturday. Entry of Reynolds and Kaiser would bring to five the number of firms bargaining here with the Steelworkers. Each company is meeting separately with the union.

The talks, which so far have dealt with work rules issues such as seniority clauses, were expected to swing to money matters early next week with the arrival of McDonald and some of his top aides.

Federal Mediation Chief Joseph F. Finnegan suspended steel bargaining talks in Washington Thursday to give McDonald an opportunity to sit in on the aluminum discussions.

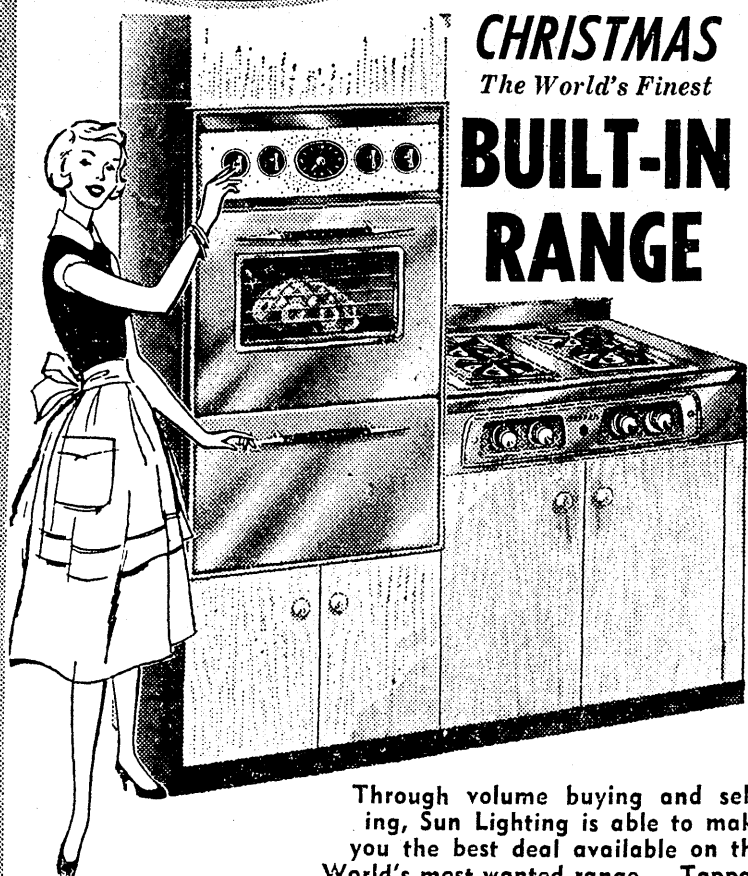

The USW head was scheduled to arrive here Saturday night or Sunday and press for a quick settlement in aluminum, presumably along the lines of the Kaiser Steel agreement, to increase pressure for a steel decision.

Separate negotiations continued Friday between the USW and the Aluminum Company of America, Olin Mathieson Aluminum Division and Ormet Corporation. The USW bargains for about 16,000 Alcoa workers in 10 states, for 1,400 Ormet workers at Hannibal, Ohio, and 800 Olin-Mathieson employees, also at Hannibal.

Frank Weikel, director of labor relations for Reynolds, said that company planned to resume negotiations here Monday with the CIO-AFL Aluminum Workers International Union, which represents 6,000 employees in four states.

Barbara Shops Amid Spectators

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Barbara Eisenhower went bargain hunting in New Delhi's main shopping district Friday trailed by a crowd of curious Indian women.

The President's daughter-in-law broke away from the week-long routine of official duties to exercise the prerogative of any American housewife — spending her husband's money.

That proved to be no easy task, however, as hundreds of women pressed around her to examine her brown suit, her black and white pearl necklace and other accessories.

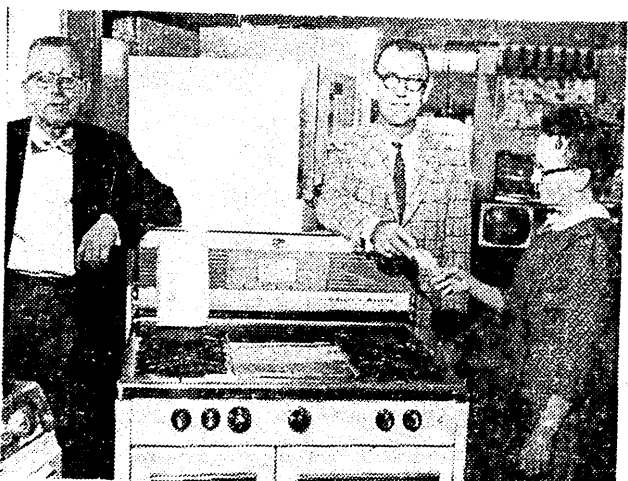

Only the stalwart efforts of police kept the scene from developing into a mass traffic jam.

The shopping trip was supposed to have been a secret but the Indian women somehow learned about it.

With all the fuss carried on about her, Barbara couldn't make up her mind.

Neville Beats Natchitoches To Gain Class AA Finals

By BOB ANDERSON
World Sports Editor

RUSTON — Neville's mud-smeared black knights snuffed out rallying Natchitoches with three fourth-quarter interceptions, two for touchdowns, to humble the previously unbeaten Red Devils, 24-7 and gain the state class AA finals for the second straight year.

Neville will meet unbeaten Thibodaux, south Louisiana champion, in Houma's Terrebonne Stadium next Friday night at 8 o'clock in the state finals. Neville and Thibodaux officials settled the site of the playoff game in a meeting in Monroe last night. Neville lost to Reserve in the finals last year.

Scoring twice in the first half, Neville was reeling under an onslaught of passes by Natchitoches quarterback Donald Beasley and only five points ahead in the fourth period when Joe Cage picked off a Beasley pass and ran 45 yards for a TD to break the Red Devils' backs.

Natchitoches had scored early in the fourth period and ran the extra point to make it 12-7 and then halted a Neville drive midway of the period before Cage intercepted the pass and went for the TD that made it 19-7. Seconds later Neil Gunn intercepted another Natchitoches pass on the Red Devils' first play after the kickoff, but Neville failed to score. Bill Ruple's Tigers, winning their 12th of the year without defeat,

BEATS DELHI, 7-6

St. Francis Wins Class A Crown

DELHI, La. (Special) — St. Francis pushed over a second quarter touchdown, added the extra point, and made it stand up for a 7-6 victory over previously unbeaten Delhi to win the state Class A title.

Quarterback Herman Pellegrin sneaked over from one yard out for the lone St. Francis touchdown.

and halfback John Braud slammed over for the winning extra point. The victory ended three years of frustration for the Houma club which moved into the finals the last two years before bowing out. The victory was St. Francis' 11th of the year against a lone tie.

Recreation Basketball

Church "A" League action featured two clear-cut victories and one protested affair last night. Lindsay sacked 13 points as LTI took a narrow 44-43 triumph over College Place. McGowan gathered 16 for the losers. St. Joseph's whipped Victory, 53-30, behind a 17-point performance by Phillips. Bennett with 8 topped Victory.

Larry Furlow singled the nets for 25 points in a losing cause as Temple dropped Trinity, 41-38. Larry Boyte got 12 to lead the winners. Trinity, claiming Temple used an ineligible player, played the game under protest.

The Hep Cats trounced the Gold Wave, 25-15, and three other teams captured "defensive" battles in the Northside girls loop. Swayze led the Cats with 16 and Haddad dropped in 11 for the Wave.

Crowe scored all five as the Eaglettes beat the Beatniks, 5-4. Halsell with 2 topped the beat Beatniks. Mason handled all the Hornets scoring as they turned back the Black Kittens, 11-8. Simon and Branch split the losers' total.

Rowan kept time with eight points as the Rhythmaires skinned the Tigerettes, 1-6. Touchstone got all six for the losers. Jones tossed in 22 points as New Light routed Claiborne in a Church "B" scrap. Hinton hooped 6 for Claiborne.

In other Church "B" games Brownsville beat Calvary, Central defeated College and Southside Methodist tumbled First Baptist, 2-0.

Schuler had 13 points for the Methodists and Struben had 5 for First Baptist.

Brown New Golf Pro At Highland Park

Billy Brown, former assistant golf pro at Bayou Desard Country Club, has been named club pro at Highland Park, it has been announced. A former member of the LSU golf team, Brown replaces James Aulds at the Highland position.

Brown is a former Little Rock, Ark., city champion and won the Camden, Ark., Invitational. He served for 3½ years at Bayou Desard. Brown is married and has two children.

42. Devonne Payne and Cage made 6 yard pickups before Turner sprinted for the touchdown.

Neville scored again in the last minute of the period, thanks to a 21 yard punt return by Cage. Cage returned the ball to the Natchitoches 18 yard line, then scored three plays later on a 9-yard end sweep, with quarterback Turner faking beautifully to the fullback.

Cage's kick was short and it was 12-0 with 21 seconds left in the half. The teams battled without a score in the third period, with Natchitoches starting on a 61-yard touchdown march late in the quarter.

A 15-yard pass interference against Neville and a 12-yard Beasley toss to end Bob Melvin helped power the drive, climaxed by a three-yard pitch from Beasley to Methzin. Halfback Bobby Parker went wide around right end for the extra point, and it was Neville 12, Natchitoches 7, two minutes and 20 seconds deep in the fourth period.

Neville took the kickoff, and ground out two first downs, their first of the half, before stalling on the Natchitoches 39, when Cage failed to gain off tackle with fourth and one.

With four minutes to go, Beasley trotted back to pass on first down, Cage, in full stride, intercepted at the Natchitoches 45, headed down the left sidelines, shook off two tacklers, and went over for the clinching touchdown. Cage's run was short on the extra point try.

Beasley passed again on first down following the kickoff, and Gunn intercepted this time with a diving catch on the 41. Neville ground to the Natchitoches 26 before stalling with a 15-yard clipping penalty, setting them back.

The unlucky Beasley again tried to pass from his 26, and 143-pound Hunt intercepted at the 30 and dashed into the end zone with 11 seconds left on the clock. Cage slipped down trying for the extra point, and the game ended seconds later 24-7.

Cage was injured on the last play, suffering facial cuts, but is expected to be ready for next week's game with Thibodaux.

Neville, as usual, kept strictly to the ground, with Cage gaining 65 yards in 14 trips. Turner had 50 yards on 11 tries, despite several losses, and Payne picked up 39 yards in nine carries.

Beside hampering Beasley's passing, the wet ball produced four fumbles by each side during the game, but none of them were lost.

Cox was again the outstanding lineman with his vicious blocking, and great defensive play; while Natchitoches end Roy Gentry was Beasley's favorite receiver. Fullback and linebacker Bill Hyams was outstanding of defense.

The victory was Neville's second straight in playoff competition and it's second at Tech's watched the game.

Neville took Minden 28-6 here two weeks ago in a bi-district playoff. Natchitoches crushed E. Niche 34-6 last week in its first pre-season game.

Chatham knocked off West Monroe, 68-56, as Buddy Garr pitched in 22 points. Roy Scroggins had 16 and Larry Donna and Billy Doerner tallied 10 each for West Monroe.

Harry Crowe tossed in 29 points as the Lions clipped Choudrant, 56-35. Lamar Spillers netted 12 for the losers. Bunny Gilliland had 10 points as Calhoun tripped Downsview, 45-23. Guice paced the losers with 14.

Today's semifinals begin at one o'clock with Chatham boys meeting Calhoun. The West Monroe girls tangle with Ouachita at two and Ouachita's boys take on the Neville boys at three.

Girls finals are set for 7, with the boys' finals on tap at 8:15.

Yankees, Athletics Trade Again; Maris To New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees Friday obtained outfielder Roger Maris and gave up Don (Perfect Game) Larsen in a seven-player trade with the Kansas City Athletics.

The Athletics, who have made numerous previous transactions with the Yankees, also received outfielders Norm Siebern and Hank Bauer and first baseman-outfielder Marv Throneberry.

In addition to Maris, the Yanks got shortstop Joe DeMaestri and first baseman Kent Hadley. The deal also nullified a New York player obligation resulting from last summer's trade in which Hector Lopez moved to New York.

The Yanks also announced they had signed outfielder Elmer Valo, a free agent. Valo played part of last season with Cleveland which gave him his unconditional release during the World Series.

"We have tried unsuccessfully to trade with other clubs in both leagues," said Yankee General Manager George Weiss. "The Yanks and Kansas City have faith in each other."

A Yankee spokesman said that DeMaestri, a shortstop, would probably be used as trade bait. Yankee Manager Casey Stengel expressed satisfaction over the shifts. He said he planned to use Maris in left field, Mickey Mantle in center and Lopez in right.

Maris, who began his big league career with Cleveland, batted .273 with 16 homers and 72 runs batted in last season. He was out for a month following an appendectomy. DeMaestri hit .244 and Hadley .253.

Siebern had defensive difficulties in left field although his batting was adequate. Norm hit .275 with 11 homers and 53 RBI. Bauer wound up with a .238 batting mark. Hank, 37, has spent all of his 11 big league seasons with the Yanks. Throneberry had a .240 batting mark as a parttime performer. Larsen, 30, hurled the only perfect game in World Series history in the fifth game of the 1956 classic against the Brooklyn Dodgers. He has been bothered by arm trouble the past two years and compiled a 6-7 won-lost figure in 1959.

Friday's deal was the 13th since the inter-league trading started Nov. 21. Five of the trades have been within each league.

This was the 15th transaction between the Yanks and Kansas City. The Kansas City-New York shuffles, starting shortly after the A's moved West in 1955 into former Yankee farm territory, have involved 59 players. Several have made the trip both ways or to a minor league farm outlet.

Parke Carroll, Athletics' general manager, said Bauer "can be a great ball player for us and even though we hated to part with Maris, I don't think we have hurt ourselves. Siebern batted .300 last year and I like him."

Carroll said the club was banking heavily on rookie Lou Klimchick in its infield planning. Klimchick is the first product of the A's farm system developed since owner Arnold Johnson took over.

"We could be in trouble if he doesn't come through," Carroll said. "But we have a young shortstop in Ken Hamlin and Jerry Lumpe as well."

DeMaestri, last of the Athletics who transferred here with the club in 1955, hadn't been counted on for next year. He had indicated he might retire from baseball.

Bauer, at his home near Kansas City, said, "I'm very happy to join the Athletics. This is home and I'm glad to be back home."

Mangham Beats Cotton Valley, 7-6

MANGHAM, La. (Special) — Mangham's Dragons recovered a fumble in the waning minutes of play and drove 91 yards for a winning touchdown to turn back Cotton Valley, 7-6, here last night and move into the state Class B semifinals.

The Dragons, now 8-4-2 for the season, are tentatively scheduled to meet Oberlin here Friday night for the championship. The date may be changed because of conflicting school dates, officials said. Fullback Silvester Johns scored the touchdown to knot the score with just over two minutes remaining to play. Then he bulled over for the game-winning extra point in a driving rainstorm. Cotton Valley, which closed out its campaign with a 7-4 second quarter touchdown by a second quarter touchdown by Mike Rachal.

With Mangham quarterback Don Adams back to kick on his own 22, Giles broke through to block the punt and recovered on the 21. Moments later Giles took a pass from Mike Rachal for 15 yards and A. J. Leggett hauled in another at the one. Rachal sneaked over for the touchdown but his attempted run for the point was stopped.

Adams recovered a Cotton Valley fumble on the Dragon 9 to halt a Wildcat drive and initiate the winning march in the fourth period. With Noble Ellington leading the way on a 40-yard fourth down gallop on a fake punt play, the Dragons moved to the 20. A fumble set them back to the 25. Then Johns burst through for his 25-yard scoring sprint. He then ran the point for the winning margin.

Cotton Valley took the kickoff with two minutes left and drove to the Mangham 20 but Glen Stamper intercepted a Wildcat pass with 20 seconds to protect the lead.

Cotton Valley led in first downs, 7-6, and completed 3 of 9 passes. Mangham didn't attempt an aerial.

Neville Beats Natchitoches To Gain Class AA Finals

By BOB ANDERSON
World Sports Editor

RUSTON — Neville's mud-smeared black knights snuffed out rallying Natchitoches with three fourth-quarter interceptions, two for touchdowns, to humble the previously unbeaten Red Devils, 24-7 and gain the state class AA finals for the second straight year.

Neville will meet unbeaten Thibodaux, south Louisiana champion, in Houma's Terrebonne Stadium next Friday night at 8 o'clock in the state finals. Neville and Thibodaux officials settled the site of the playoff game in a meeting in Monroe last night. Neville lost to Reserve in the finals last year.

Scoring twice in the first half, Neville was reeling under an onslaught of passes by Natchitoches quarterback Donald Beasley and only five points ahead in the fourth period when Joe Cage picked off a Beasley pass and ran 45 yards for a TD to break the Red Devils' backs.

Natchitoches had scored early in the fourth period and ran the extra point to make it 12-7 and then halted a Neville drive midway of the period before Cage intercepted the pass and went for the TD that made it 18-7. Seconds later Neil Gunn intercepted another Natchitoches pass on the Red Devils first play after the kickoff, but Neville failed to score. Bill Ruple's Tigers, winning their 12th of the year without defeat,

BEATS DELHI, 7-6

St. Francis Wins Class A Crown

DELHI, La. (Special) — St. Francis pushed over a second quarter touchdown, added the extra point, and made it stand up for a 7-6 victory over previously unbeaten Delhi to win the state Class A title.

Quarterback Herman Pellegrin sneaked over from one yard out for the lone St. Francis touchdown.

STATISTICS	Delhi	St. Francis
First Downs	158	87

Passes	13	43
Yards passing	15	43
Passes Int. by	0	0
Fumbles lost	4-31.6	3-30.2
Penalties	0-0	2-20

and halfback John Braud slammed over for the winning extra point.

The victory ended three years of frustration for the Houma club which moved into the finals the last two years before bowing out. The victory was St. Francis' 11th of the year against a lone tie.

Recreation Basketball

Church "A" League action featured two clear-cut victories and one protested affair last night. Lindsay sacked 13 points as LTI took a narrow 44-43 triumph over College Place. McGowan gathered 16 for the losers.

St. Joseph's whipped Victory, 53-30, behind a 17-point performance by Phillips. Bennett with 8 topped Victory.

Larry Furlow singled the nets for 25 points in a losing cause as Temple dropped Trinity, 41-38. Larry Boyte got 12 to lead the winners. Trinity, claiming Temple used an ineligible player, played the game under protest.

The Hep Cats trounced the Gold Wave, 25-15, and three other teams captured "defensive" battles in the Northside girls loop. Swayze led the Cats with 16 and Haddad dropped in 11 for the Wave.

Crowe scored all five as the Eaglettes beat the Beatniks, 5-4. Halsell with 2 topped the beat Beatniks. Mason handled all the Hornets scoring as they turned back the Black Kittens, 11-8. Simon and Branch split the losers' total.

Rowan kept time with eight points as the Rhythmaires skinned the Tigrettes, 1-6. Touchstone got all six for the losers.

Jones tossed in 22 points as New Light routed Claiborne in a Church "B" scrap. Hinton hooped 6 for Claiborne.

In other Church "B" games, Brownville beat Calvary, Central defeated College and Southside Methodist tumbled First Baptist, 59.

Schuler had 13 points for the Methodists and Struben had 5 for First Baptist.

Brown New Golf Pro At Highland Park

Billy Brown, former assistant golf pro at Bayou DeSiard Country Club, has been named club pro at Highland Park, it has been announced. A former member of the LSU golf team, Brown replaces James Aulds at the Highland position.

Brown is a former Little Rock, Ark., city champion and won the Camden, Ark., Invitational. He served for 3½ years at Bayou DeSiard. Brown is married and has two children.

42. Devonne Payne and Cage made 6 yard pickups before Turner sprinted for the touchdown.

Neville scored again in the last minute of the period, thanks to a 21 yard punt return by Cage. Cage returned the ball to the Natchitoches 18 yard line, then scored three plays later on a 9-yard end sweep, with quarterback Turner faking beautifully to the fullback.

Cage's kick was short and it was 12-0 with 21 seconds left in the half. The teams battled without a score in the third period, with Natchitoches starting on a 61-yard touchdown march late in the quarter.

A 15-yard pass interference against Neville and a 12-yard Beasley toss to end Bob Methvin helped power the drive, climaxed by a three-yard pitch from Beasley to Methvin. Halfback Bobby Parker went wide around right end for the extra point, and it was Neville 12, Natchitoches 7, two minutes and 20 seconds deep in the fourth period.

Neville took the kickoff, and ground out two first downs, their first of the half, before stalling on the Natchitoches 39, when Cage failed to gain off tackle with fourth and one.

With four minutes to go, Beasley trotted back to pass on first down, Cage, in full stride, intercepted at the Natchitoches 45, headed down the left sideline, shook off two tacklers, and went over for the clinching touchdown. Cage's run was short on the extra point try.

Beasley passed again on first down following the kickoff, and Gunn intercepted this time with a diving catch on the 41. Neville ground to the Natchitoches 26 before stalling with a 15-yard clipping penalty, setting them back.

The unlucky Beasley again tried to pass from his 26, and 143-pound Hunt intercepted at the 30 and dashed into the end zone with 11 seconds left on the clock. Cage slipped down trying for the extra point, and the game ended seconds later 24-7.

Cage was injured on the last play, suffering facial cuts, but is expected to be ready for next week's game with Thibodaux. Neville, as usual, kept strictly to the ground, with Cage gaining 63 yards in 14 trips. Turner had 50 yards on 11 tries, despite several losses, and Payne picked up 39 yards in nine carries.

Beside hampering Beasley's passing, the wet ball produced four fumbles by each side during the game, but none of them were lost.

Cox was again the outstanding lineman with his vicious blocking, and great defensive play; while Natchitoches end Roy Gentry was Beasley's favorite receiver. Fullback and linebacker Bill Hyams was outstanding of defense.

The victory was Neville's second straight in playoff competition and it's second at Tech's watched the game.

Neville took Minden 28-6 here two weeks ago in a bi-district playoff. Natchitoches crushed Eunice 34-6 last week in its first pre-season game.

Lions, Tigers In Semifinals At Calhoun

CALHOUN, La. (Special) — Chatham, Ouachita and Calhoun grabbed victories last night to move into the semifinals of the Calhoun Invitational cage tournament.

Chatham knocked off West Monroe, 68-56, as Buddy Garr pitched in 22 points. Roy Scroggins had 16 and Larry Danna and Billy Doerner tallied 10 each for West Monroe.

Harry Crowe tossed in 29 points as the Lions clipped Choudrant, 56-35. Lamar Spillers netted 12 for the losers. Bunny Gilliland had 10 points as Calhoun tripped Downsview, 45-23. Guice paced the losers with 14.

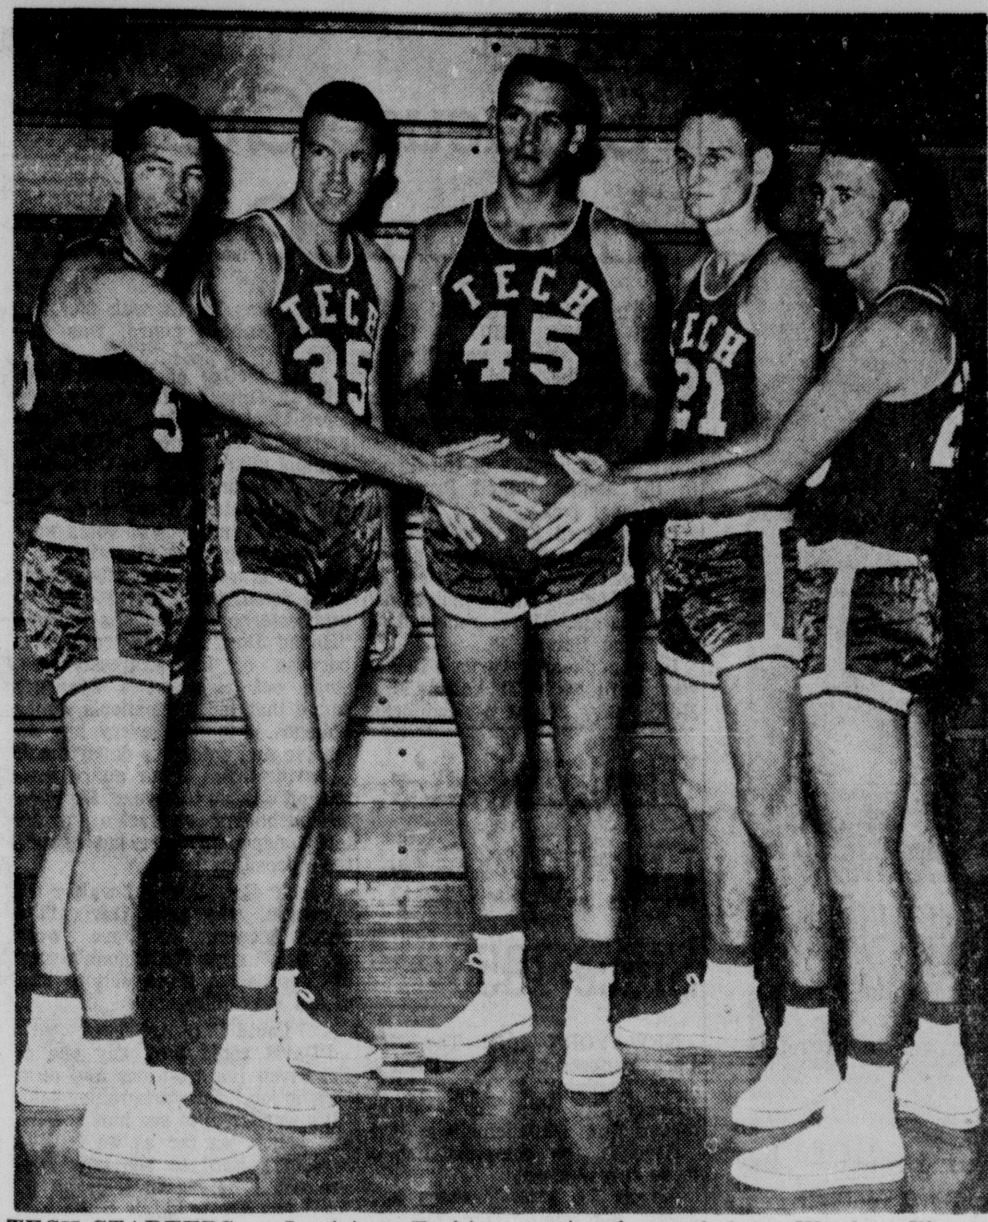

Today's semifinals begin at one o'clock with Chatham boys meeting Calhoun. The West Monroe girls tangle with Ouachita at two and Ouachita's boys take on the Neville boys at three.

Girls' finals are set for 7, with the boys' finals on tap at 8:15.

Colts Favorites To Defeat Rams

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International
The Baltimore Colts are 10-point favorites to whip the Rams Saturday at Los Angeles and set up their second straight clash with the New York Giants in the National Football League's championship game.

Gillman Mum On Blast By Fears

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Head Coach Sid Gillman declined to say anything Friday in answer to a blast from a former Los Angeles Ram star, Tom Fears, that the current Rams have no confidence in him.

Gillman spent the morning supervising a workout. "No comment," Gillman said crisply about the views aired by Fears in San Francisco.

Gillman, finishing his fifth year with the club, has another year to go on his contract.

Baltimore, leading the San Francisco Forty-Niners and Chicago Bears by a game, needs a victory or a tie in the nationally televised (CBS) game at Los Angeles to capture its second consecutive Western Division title. The Colts scored a 23-17 overtime triumph over the Giants in the 1958 championship game.

The other 10 NFL clubs end their regular seasons Sunday. If the Rams upset the Colts Saturday, the Forty-Niners and Bears could tie for division honors and force playoff games by winning Sunday. The Forty-Niners play host to the Green Bay Packers and are favored by five points. The Bears entertain the Detroit Lions and are favored by 7½.

New York clinched its second straight Eastern crown last Sunday by clobbering the Cleveland Browns, 49-7. The Giants will warm up for the title game by tackling the Redskins at Washington and are favored by nine points.

The Philadelphia Eagles entertain the Browns and are one point choices. The Steelers are 10-point favorites for their season windup against the Chicago Cardinals at Pittsburgh.

The Browns must defeat the Eagles to tie that club for second in the East. If the Eagles win and the Steelers whip the Cardinals, the Browns will end the season in fourth place. The only time Cleveland ever finished that low was in 1956 when Coach Paul Brown's outfit tied for fourth.

If either the Forty-Niners or Bears wind up tied with the Colts, a playoff for the Western title would be staged Dec. 20 at Baltimore. The winner would play host to New York in the championship game Dec. 27.

If the Colts lose and the Forty-Niners and Bears win to set up a three-way tie, San Francisco would play at Baltimore Dec. 20. The survivor would meet the Bears in Chicago Dec. 27. If there is a three-way tie, the championship game would be set back to Jan. 3 in the city of the Western winner.

Baltimore has won only one of the seven games it has played at Los Angeles and it took a field goal in the final seconds to produce that 22-21 triumph in 1954.

But the Colts are in a jinx-busting mood this year. Their 24-14 victory last Saturday at San Francisco was the first they had collected there in 12 regular season and exhibition appearances since 1947.

The Rams go into Saturday's game with some of the league's finest players and one of its worst (2-9) current records.

Los Angeles, which dropped a 35-21 decision at Baltimore several weeks ago, has one of the game's top passers in Bill Wade. It also has some of the league's top receivers, headed by Del Shofner, Jon Arnett and Jim Phillips.

Pietrosante, a rookie fullback from Notre Dame, injured his knee in last Sunday's National Football League game with the Chicago Cardinals.

Cook, a 205-pound end from Toledo University, was signed as a free agent for one game. He had previous trials with Green Bay and Cleveland.

Syracuse Guard Lineman Of Year

By EARL WRIGHT
NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Davis, who is so versatile his coach says he could star at any one of seven positions for Syracuse University's national champions, Friday was named college football's "Lineman of the Year" in the annual United Press International poll.

Davis edged Bill Turrell of Illinois, also an All-America guard, by only two votes in nationwide balloting by 343 sports writers and broadcasters. Davis received 58 votes and Turrell 56.

Dan Lanphear, Wisconsin tackle, was third with 32 votes. Mike McKeever, Southern California guard, was fourth with 30. Zeke Smith, Auburn guard, was fifth with 25.

Mike McGee of Duke followed with 19. Other leading vote-getters were Monty Stickles, Notre Dame end, with 13; Marvin Terrell, Mississippi guard, with 11; Chris Burford, Stanford end, with 10; and Bill Carpenter, Army end, with nine. The remaining 80 votes were divided among 33 players.

Davis is a six-three, 228-pounder from Solon, Ohio. The 21-year-old midwesterner, who is called "Hound Dog" by his teammates because of his aggressiveness, stood out even on a Syracuse squad that led the nation's major colleges in almost every key offensive and defensive department.

Davis played either guard position on offense this year. He played linebacker or tackle on defense, depending on what offense the opposition used.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse, who calls Davis "the best lineman I have ever coached," says the Ohioan's play at those spots gives only a hint of his versatility.

Could Play Any Post
"Davis could play any one of the seven line positions and do a terrific job," Schwartzwalder said. "It's wonderful to see him receive this honor. As far as we believe here, it's hard to see how anyone could be better than he is. We know we wouldn't trade him for anyone."

Davis is expected to sign a professional football contract shortly after Syracuse plays Texas in the Cotton Bowl game Jan. 1. He was the No. 1 choice of the Chicago Bears in the recent National Football League draft of college stars and also was picked by Denver during the draft conducted by the new American Football League.

Burrell, the other leading vote-getter in the poll, was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals of the NFL and Buffalo of the AFL. Burrell, 210-pound Illinois captain from Champaign, Ill., signed this week to play pro football in Canada for Saskatchewan.

'Skin Greats On Hand For Sunday Game
WASHINGTON (AP) — Coach Mike Nixon of the Washington Redskins can dream, can't he?

Anyone in his position would, what with his down-trodden team playing the New York Giants, Eastern champs of the NFL, on Sunday and all those great players sitting idle in the stands.

The entire backfield of Washington's first championship team is being reassembled with other well known figures of the past for a banquet of Redskins alumni Saturday night and mid-field appearances at Griffith Stadium the next day.

Sammy Baugh, now coach at Hardin-Simmons and a Texas rancher; Ernie Pinckert of Los Angeles, Riley Smith of Mobile, Ala., and Cliff Battles of Washington comprised the 1937 backfield that helped Washington win the National Football League title.

They'll be present, but Nixon will still have to go with Eddie Le Baron, Ed Sutton, Dick James and Johnny Olszewski.

Baugh, the famous passer, has been asked to present the alumni's first distinguished service award to a current Redskin, line-backer Chuck Drazanovich. A former Penn State fullback, Drazanovich is completing his 10th season at Washington and may or may not return for another.

Latest word from Drazanovich is that he will be back, but he's not likely to start against the Giants as Nixon is inclined to continue testing young Frank Kuchta as middle linebacker. Rookie Art Gob has been tabbed for a similar viewing at right linebacker, while veteran Ken MacAfee replaces ailing Joe Walton at right end on offense and Will Renfro shifts from defensive tackle to offensive guard.

The Giants are 10-point favorites. Their 9-2 record is best in the league, Washington, which has never finished with worse than a 3-9 mark, enters the last game of the regular season at 3-8.

Lenoir Rhyne Places Two On All-NAIA

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two Lenoir Rhyne players have been named on the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics all star football team for 1959.

They are Lee Farmer, backfield man who scored 110 points, and tackle Charles Sanders. Lenoir Rhyne, of Hickory, N.C., ranked first among NAIA teams and will play Texas A&I College in the Holiday Bowl for the NAIA championship Dec. 19.

The all-star backfield accounted for a lot of touchdowns this year. Besides Farmer, the backs are Garney Henley of Huron (S.D.) College, 141 points; Gary Campbell, Whittier (Calif.) College, 90 points, and Rusty Addleman, College of Emporia, 123.

The backs averaged 194 pounds. The linemen, averaging 210 pounds, are: Ends, William Cole, Whitworth (Wash.), and J. W. Lockett, Central Oklahoma; tackle, Sanders and William Beck, Gustavus Adolphus (Minn.); guards, Gustavus Adolphus (Minn.); guards, Gerald Lambert, Texas A&I, and Arnold Branch, Langston (Okla.); center, Jerry Forno, Western Ill.

Coaches in the NAIA nominate players for the all-star team and the final choice is made by a selection committee.

Shaw Rehired For Third Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles, once the hot team for National Football League coaches, played it cool Friday by rehiring Buck Shaw for a third year.

Shaw probably could have had a longer contract but said he plans to retire from coaching at the conclusion of the 1960 season. His ace quarterback, Norm Van Brocklin, is his probable successor.

The Eagles previously have notified other coaches they were through even before season's end. So it was a turnabout Friday as club President Frank McNamee announced Shaw's rehiring when the Eagles still have one game left this season.

The Eagles figured in pre-season calculations to be among the cellar dwellers in the NFL's Eastern Division. Instead they are in second place with a 7-4 record, a game ahead of the Cleveland Browns with whom they wind up Sunday.

Shaw, a veteran of nearly 40 years coaching, succeeded Hugh Devore. Others who held the job since Greasy Neale was fired in 1959—he won the NFL title in 1949—were Bo McMillan and Wayne Milner in 1951; Jim Trimble 1952-55 and Devore in 1956-57.

Shaw, 60-year-old native of Mitchellville, Iowa, said it was a "distinct pleasure to return . . . for the 1960 season, which will be my last as a football coach. This 1959 Eagles' team has great potential and is a championship team in the making."

The success of the Eagles is a tribute to Shaw. He tore them apart last year when they finished with a 2-9-1 record. Until he got the players he wanted, said Shaw, he planned to have "one team coming, one team going and one team playing."

This year, as Shaw predicted, the club was a contender. Previously Shaw had nine years before leaving the pro game. He also provided the nucleus for the first successful Air Force Academy teams.

The Eagles' coach, a star lineman at Notre Dame in 1922, where he was a classmate of Philadelphia General Manager Vince McNally, got into the coaching profession in 1922.

He served at Nevada (1922-23); North Carolina State (1924); Nevada again (1925-28); Santa Clara (1929-32); University of California (1933-34); 49ers (1946-54), and Air Force, (1956-57).

Now a resident of Menlo Park, Calif., Shaw has been named head coach of the Eastern pros in the annual NFL Pro Bowl Game Jan. 17 in Los Angeles.

David added that if Wimbledon became open to both pros and amateurs in 1961 then it would be run in exactly the same way as in the past.

The professionals would be offered "only what the ordinary player now gets at Wimbledon."

He went on: "I agree we probably won't get Kramer's professionals to enter but that is up to them. But I feel that in due time the big circus professionals will have to enter to uphold their claim of being the best players in the world."

McPhail Takes Over Bird Post

As expected, the board of directors elevated the 42-year-old MacPhail to the top post and named him to the ten-member board. It is expected he will continue under the three-year contract he signed when he came to the Orioles from the New York Yankee front office last year.

Keely tapped MacPhail as his successor Tuesday after announcing his resignation. Keely said as state, and Roger LeClerc, of Little All-America selection from Trinity, Conn., College.

ECAC Not In Accord With 'Intent' Rule

NEW YORK (AP) — The Eastern College Athletic Conference, comprising 121 institutions, went on record Friday as opposed to the "letter of intent" idea in the case of athletes on scholarship.

It has been proposed that the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) adopt a rule that a player who receives a scholarship or a fellowship at one institution sign an agreement that he will not compete for another institution to which he might transfer.

The signed document would make him ineligible to compete in athletics at the second institution.

The ECAC's principles and policies committee opposed the suggestion of a national rule. It is in effect in some conferences.

The ECAC elected officers, admitted six new members and added an affiliate organization at its final business meeting at a midtown hotel.

David Nelson, athletic director and football coach at Delaware, was named the new president of the group. The vice president is DeLaney Kipthuth of Yale.

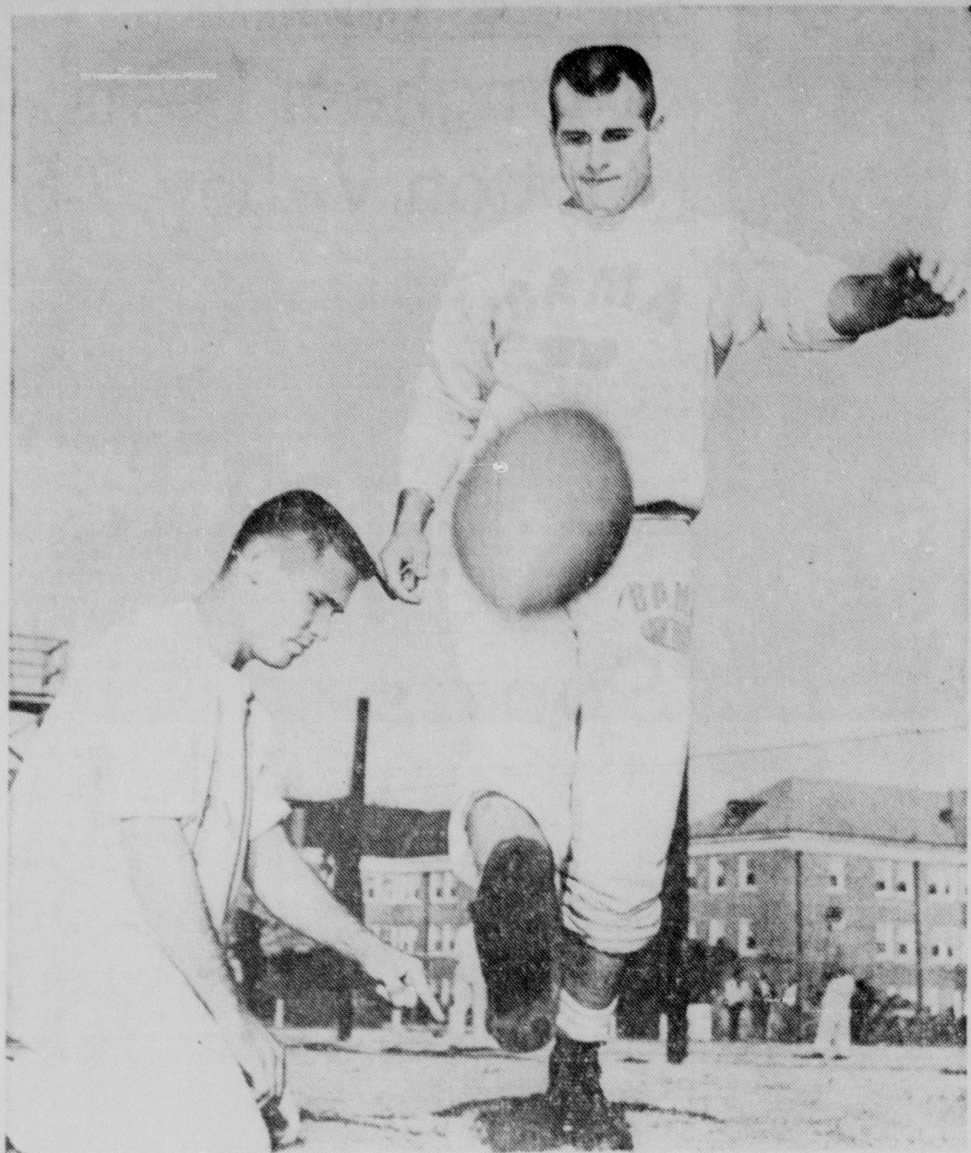

The six new colleges brought into membership, bringing the total to 121, are: Bowdoin, C. W. Post, 121, are Bowdoin, C. W. Post, Quinnipiac (Conn.), Rochester Polytechnic Institute, University of Rochester and St. Francis (Brooklyn).

The added affiliates in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Soccer Conference, composed of nine New York colleges.

Four men were added to the executive council. They were: Asbury Coward of Navy, Red Rolfe of Dartmouth, Frank Thoms of Williams and Mox Weber of Hamilton. Ray Oosting of Trinity Conn., was named vice chairman of the eligibility committee to which two new members were added. They are Richard L. Balch of MIT and Harvey D. Woods of Fairleigh-Dickinson.

The group turned down a proposal by Cornell that an athlete receiving financial aid or an athletic scholarship be allowed to retain his eligibility even though he may receive pre-college help at another institution.

Colts Favorites To Defeat Rams

United Press International
The Baltimore Colts are 10-point favorites to whip the Rams Saturday at Los Angeles and set up their second straight clash with the New York Giants in the National Football League's championship game.

Gillman Mum On Blast By Fears

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Head Coach Sid Gillman declined to say anything Friday in answer to a blast from a former Los Angeles Ram star, Tom Fears, that the current Rams have no confidence in him.

Gillman spent the morning supervising a workout.

"No comment," Gillman said crisply about the views aired by Fears in San Francisco.

Gillman, finishing his fifth year with the club, has another year to go on his contract.

Baltimore, leading the San Francisco Forty-Niners and Chicago Bears by a game, needs a victory or a tie in the nationally televised (CBS) game at Los Angeles to capture its second consecutive Western Division title. The Colts scored a 23-17 overtime triumph over the Giants in the 1958 championship game.

The other 10 NFL clubs end their regular seasons Sunday.

If the Rams upset the Colts Saturday, the Forty-Niners and Bears could tie for division honors and force playoff games by winning Sunday. The Forty-Niners play host to the Green Bay Packers and are favored by five points. The Bears entertain the Detroit Lions and are favored by 7½.

New York clinched its second straight Eastern crown last Sunday by clobbering the Cleveland Browns, 48-7. The Giants will warm up for the title game by tackling the Redskins at Washington and are favored by nine points.

The Philadelphia Eagles entertain the Browns and are one-point choices. The Steelers are 10-point favorites for their season windup against the Chicago Cardinals at Pittsburgh.

The Browns must defeat the Eagles to tie that club for second in the East. If the Eagles win and the Steelers whip the Cardinals, the Browns will end the season in fourth place. The only time Cleveland ever finished that low was in 1956 when Coach Paul Brown's outfit tied for fourth.

If either the Forty-Niners or Bears wind up tied with the Colts, a playoff for the Western title would be staged Dec. 20 at Baltimore. The winner would play host to New York in the championship game Dec. 27.

If the Colts lose and the Forty-Niners and Bears win to set up a three-way tie, San Francisco would play at Baltimore Dec. 20. The survivor would meet the Bears in Chicago Dec. 27. If there is a three-way tie, the championship game would be set back to Jan. 3 in the city of the Western winner.

Baltimore has won only one of the seven games it has played at Los Angeles and it took a field goal in the final seconds to produce that 22-21 triumph in 1954.

But the Colts are in a jinx-busting mood this year. Their 34-14 victory last Saturday at San Francisco was the first they had collected there in 12 regular season and exhibition appearances since 1947.

The Rams go into Saturday's game with some of the league's finest players and one of its worst (2-9) current records.

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions Friday assigned Nick Pietrosante, their top ground gainer, to the injured reserve list, and signed end Gene Cook for Sunday's game with the Chicago Bears.

Yankees, A's List 15 Deals Since 1955

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees have negotiated 15 deals involving 59 players with Kansas City since the Athletics moved from Philadelphia in 1955.

Here is the complete list of those transactions:

April 28, 1955—Yankees sold Lou Sleater.

May 11, 1955—Yankees traded Enos Slaughter and Johnny Sain for Sonny Dixon and cash.

June 14, 1955—Yankees traded Eddie Robinson and Lou Skizas for Ed Bertsch and Bill Renna.

Aug. 25, 1955 — Yankees purchased Enos Slaughter.

Oct. 15, 1955—Yankees sold Bob Cerv.

Feb. 18, 1957—Yankees traded Mickey McDermott, Tom Morgan, Rip Coleman, Billy Hunter, Irv Noren and Jack Urban for Bobby Shantz, Art Ditmar and Cletis Boyer. Four minor leaguers were included in the 13-player deal.

June 15, 1957—Yankees traded Billy Martin, Ralph Terry, Woody Held and Bob Martyn for Harry Simpson, Jim Pisoni, Ryne Duran and Milk Graff.

June 15, 1958 — Yankees traded Bob Grim and Harry Simpson for Virgil Trucks and Duke Maas.

Aug. 22, 1958 Yankees acquired Murry Dickson and cash for Zeke Berra.

April 9, 1959 — Yankees traded Mark Freeman for Jack Urban. Freeman was returned to the Yankees May 2.

April 12, 1959 — Yankees traded Tommy Carroll and Russ Snyder for Bob Martyn and Mike Baxes.

May 9, 1959—Yankees sold Murry Dickson.

May 26, 1959—Yankees traded Tom Sturdivant, Johnny Kucks and Jerry Lumpe for Hector Lopez and Ralph Terry.

Dec. 11, 1959 — Yankees traded Don Larsen, Norm Siebern, Hank Bauer and Marv Throneberry for Roger Maris, Joe DeMaestri and Kent Hadley.

McPhail Takes Over Bird Post

As expected, the board of directors elevated the 42-year-old MacPhail to the top post and named him to the ten-member board. It is expected he will continue under the three-year contract he signed when he came to the Orioles from the New York Yankee front office last year.

Keely tapped MacPhail as his successor Tuesday after announcing his resignation. Keely said he was quitting the post because of other business interests. However, he will stay on the board.

The six new colleges brought into membership, bringing the total to 121, are Gowdoin, C. W. Post to 121, are Bowdoin, C. W. Post, Quinnipiac (Conn.), Rochester Polytechnic Institute, University of Rochester and St. Francis (Brooklyn).

The added affiliates in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Soccer Conference, composed of nine New York colleges.

Four men were added to the executive council. They were Asbury Coward of Navy, Red Rolfe of Dartmouth, Frank Thoms of Williams and Mox Weber of Hamilton. Ray Oosting of Trinity Conn., was named vice chairman of the eligibility committee to which two new members were added. They are Richard L. Balch of MIT and Harvey D. Woods of Fairleigh-Dickinson.

The group turned down a proposal by Cornell that an athlete receiving financial aid or an athletic scholarship be allowed to retain his eligibility even though he may receive pre-college help at another institution.

Colts Favorites To Defeat Rams

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International
The Baltimore Colts are 10-point favorites to whip the Rams Saturday at Los Angeles and set up their second straight clash with the New York Giants in the National Football League's championship game.

Gillman Mum On Blast By Fears

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Head Coach Sid Gillman declined to say anything Friday in answer to a blast from a former Los Angeles Ram star, Tom Fears, that the current Rams have no confidence in him.
Gillman spent the morning supervising a workout.
"No comment," Gillman said crisply about the views aired by Fears in San Francisco.
Gillman, finishing his fifth year with the club, has another year to go on his contract.

Baltimore, leading the San Francisco Forty-Niners and Chicago Bears by a game, needs a victory or a tie in the nationally televised (CBS) game at Los Angeles to capture its second consecutive Western Division title. The Colts scored a 23-17 overtime triumph over the Giants in the 1958 championship game.
The other 10 NFL clubs end their regular seasons Sunday.
If the Rams upset the Colts Saturday, the Forty-Niners and Bears could tie for division honors and force playoff games by winning Sunday. The Forty-Niners play host to the Green Bay Packers and are favored by five points. The Bears entertain the Detroit Lions and are favored by 7½.
New York clinched its second straight Eastern crown last Sunday by clobbering the Cleveland Browns, 49-7. The Giants will warm up for the title game by tackling the Redskins at Washington and are favored by nine points.
The Philadelphia Eagles entertain the Browns and are one-point choices. The Steelers are 10-point favorites for their season windup against the Chicago Cardinals at Pittsburgh.

The Browns must defeat the Eagles to tie that club for second in the East. If the Eagles win and the Steelers whip the Cardinals, the Browns will end the season in fourth place. The only time Cleveland ever finished that low was in 1956 when Coach Paul Brown's outfit tied for fourth.
If either the Forty-Niners or Bears wind up tied with the Colts, a playoff for the Western title would be staged Dec. 20 at Baltimore. The winner would play host to New York in the championship game Dec. 27.
If the Colts lose and the Forty-Niners and Bears win to set up a three-way tie, San Francisco would play at Baltimore Dec. 20. The survivor would meet the Bears in Chicago Dec. 27. If there is a three-way tie, the championship game would be set back to Jan. 3 in the city of the Western winner.
Baltimore has won only one of the seven games it has played at Los Angeles and it took a field goal in the final seconds to produce that 22-21 triumph in 1954.
But the Colts are in a jinx-busting mood this year. Their 34-14 victory last Saturday at San Francisco was the first they had collected there in 12 regular season and exhibition appearances since 1947.
The Rams go into Saturday's game with some of the league's finest players and one of its worst (2-9) current records.
Los Angeles, which dropped a 35-21 decision at Baltimore several weeks ago, has one of the game's top passers in Bill Wade. It also has some of the league's top receivers, headed by Del Shofner, Jon Arnett and Jim Phillips.
Pietrosante, a rookie fullback from Notre Dame, injured his knee in last Sunday's National Football League game with the Chicago Cardinals.
Cook, a 205-pound end from Toledo University, was signed as a free agent for one game. He had previous trials with Green Bay and Cleveland.

IN UPI POLL

Syracuse Guard Lineman Of Year

By EARL WRIGHT
NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Davis, who is so versatile his coach says he could star at any one of seven positions for Syracuse University's national champions, Friday was named college football's "Lineman of the Year" in the annual United Press International poll.
Davis edged Bill Parrell of Illinois, also an All-America guard, by only two votes in nationwide balloting by 343 sports writers and broadcasters. Davis received 58 votes and Parrell 56.
Dan Lanphear, Wisconsin tackle, was third with 32 votes. Mike McKeever, Southern California

Yankees, A's List 15 Deals Since 1955

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees have negotiated 15 deals involving 59 players with Kansas City since the Athletics moved from Philadelphia in 1955. Here is the complete list of those transactions:
March 30, 1955—Yankees sold Ewell Blackwell, Tom Gorman and Dick Kryhoski.
April 28, 1955—Yankees sold Lou Sleater.
May 11, 1955—Yankees traded Enos Slaughter and Johnny Sain for Sonny Dixon and cash.
June 14, 1955—Yankees traded Eddie Robinson and Lou Skizas for Ed Bertsch and Bill Renza.
Aug. 25, 1956 — Yankees purchased Enos Slaughter.
Oct. 15, 1956—Yankees sold Bob Cerv.
Feb. 18, 1957—Yankees traded Mickey McDermott, Tom Morgan, Rip Coleman, Billy Hunter, Irv Noren and Jack Urban for Bobby Shantz, Art Ditmar and Cletis Boyer. Four minor leaguers were included in the 13-player deal.
June 15, 1957—Yankees traded Billy Martin, Ralph Terry, Woody Held and Bob Martyn for Harry Simpson, Jim Pisoni, Ryne Duran and Milt Graff.
June 15, 1958 — Yankees traded Bob Grim and Harry Simpson for Virgil Trucks and Duke Maas.
Aug. 22, 1958 Yankees acquired Murry Dickson and cash for Zeke Bella.
April 9, 1959 — Yankees traded Mark Freeman for Jack Urban. Freeman was returned to the Yankees May 8.
April 12, 1959 — Yankees traded Tommy Carroll and Russ Snyder for Bob Martyn and Mike Baxes.
May 9, 1959—Yankees sold Murry Dickson.
May 26, 1959—Yankees traded Tom Sturdivant, Johnny Kucks and Jerry Lumpe for Hector Lopez and Ralph Terry.
Dec. 11, 1959 — Yankees traded Don Larsen, Norm Siebern, Hank Bauer and Marv Throneberry for Roger Maris, Joe DeMaestri and Kent Hadley.

ECAC Not In Accord With 'Intent' Rule

NEW YORK (AP)—The Eastern College Athletic Conference, comprising 121 institutions, went on record Friday as opposed to the "letter of intent" idea in the case of athletes on scholarship.
It has been proposed that the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) adopt a rule that a player who receives a scholarship or a fellowship at one institution sign an agreement that he will not compete for another institution to which he might transfer.
The signed document would make him ineligible to compete in athletics at the second institution.
The ECAC's principles and policies committee opposed the suggestion of a national rule. It is in effect in some conferences.
The ECAC elected officers, admitted six new members and added an affiliate organization at its final business meeting at a midtown hotel.
David Nelson, athletic director and football coach at Delaware, was named the new president of the group. The vice president is DeLaney Kiphuth of Yale.
The six new colleges brought into membership, bringing the total to 121, are: Bowdoin, C. W. Post, Quinnipiac (Conn.), Rochester Polytechnic Institute, University of Rochester and St. Francis (Brooklyn).
The added affiliates in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Soccer Conference, composed of nine New York colleges.
Four men were added to the executive council. They were Asbury Coward of Navy, Red Rolfe of Dartmouth, Frank Thoms of Williams and Mox Weber of Hamilton. Ray Oosting of Trinity Conn., was named vice chairman of the eligibility committee to which two new members were added. They are Richard L. Balch of MIT and Harvey D. Woods of Fairleigh-Dickinson.
The group turned down a proposal by Cornell that an athlete receiving financial aid or an athletic scholarship be allowed to retain his eligibility even though he may receive pre-college help at another institution.

guard, was fourth with 30. Zeke Smith, Auburn guard, was fifth with 25.
Mike McGee of Duke followed with 19. Other leading vote-getters were Monty Stickles, Notre Dame end, with 13; Marvin Terrell, Mississippi guard, with 11; Chris Burford, Stanford end, with 10; and Bill Carpenter, Army end, with nine. The remaining 80 votes were divided among 33 players.
Davis is a six-three, 228-pounder from Solon, Ohio. The 21-year-old midwesterner, who is called "Hound Dog" by his teammates because of his aggressiveness, stood out even on a Syracuse squad that led the nation's major colleges in almost every key offensive and defensive department.
Davis played either guard position on offense this year. He played linebacker or tackle on defense, depending on what offense the opposition used.
Coach Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse, who calls Davis "the best lineman I have ever coached," says the Ohioan's play at those spots gives only a hint of his versatility.
Could Play Any Post
"Davis could play any one of the seven line positions and do a terrific job," Schwartzwalder said. "It's wonderful to see him receive this honor. As far as we believe here, it's hard to see how any one could be better than he is. We know we wouldn't trade him for anyone."
Davis is expected to sign a professional football contract shortly after Syracuse plays Texas in the Cotton Bowl game Jan. 1. He was the No. 1 choice of the Chicago Bears in the recent National Football League draft of college stars and also was picked by Denver during the draft conducted by the new American Football League.
Burrell, the other leading vote-getter in the poll, was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals of the NFL and Buffalo of the AFL. Burrell, 210-pound Illinois captain from Cheshanese, Ill., signed this week to play pro football in Canada for Saskatchewan.

'Skin Greats On Hand For Sunday Game

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coach Mike Nixon of the Washington Redskins can dream, can't he?
Anyone in his position would, what with his downtrodden team playing the New York Giants, Eastern champs of the NFL, on Sunday and all those great players sitting idle in the stands.
The entire backfield of Washington's first championship team is being reassembled with other well known figures of the past for a banquet of Redskins alumni Saturday night and midfield appearances at Griffith Stadium the next day.
Sammy Baugh, now coach at Hardin-Simmons and a Texas rancher; Ernie Pinckert of Los Angeles, Riley Smith of Mobile, Ala., and Cliff Battles of Washington comprised the 1937 backfield that helped Washington win the National Football League title.
They'll be present, but Nixon will still have to go with Eddie Le Baron, Ed Sutton, Dick James and Johnny Olszewski.
Baugh, the famous passer, has been asked to present the alumni's first distinguished service award to a current Redskin, line-backer Chuck Drazenovich. A former Penn State fullback, Drazenovich is completing his 10th season at Washington and may or may not return for another.
Latest word from Drazenovich is that he will be back, but he's not likely to start against the Giants as Nixon is inclined to continue testing young Frank Kuchta as middle linebacker. Rookie Art Gob has been tabbed for a similar viewing at right linebacker, while veteran Ken MacAfee replaces ailing Joe Walton at right end on offense and Will Renfro shifts from defensive tackle to offensive guard.
The Giants are 10-point favorites. Their 9-2 record is best in the league. Washington, which has never finished with worse than a 3-9 mark, enters the last game of the regular season at 3-8.

Lenoir Rhyne Places Two On All-NAIA

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two Lenoir Rhyne players have been named on the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics all star football team for 1959.
They are Lee Farmer, backfield man who scored 110 points, and tackle Charles Sanders. Lenoir Rhyne, of Hickory, N.C., ranked first among NAIA teams and will play Texas A&I College in the Holiday Bowl for the NAIA championship Dec. 19.
The all-star backfield accounted for a lot of touchdowns this year. Besides Farmer, the backs are Garney Henley of Huron (S.D.) College, 141 points; Gary Campbell, Whittier (Calif.) College, 90 points, and Rusty Addleman, College of Emporia, 123.
The backs averaged 194 pounds. The linemen, averaging 210 pounds, are: Ends, William Cole, Whitworth (Wash.), and J. W. Lockett, Central Oklahoma; tackle, Sanders and William Beck, Gustavus Adolphus (Minn.); guards, Gerald Lambert, Texas A&I, and Arnold Branch, Langston (Okla.); center, Jerry Forno of, Western Ill.
Coaches in the NAIA nominate players for the all-star team and the final choice is made by a selection committee.

Shaw Rehired For Third Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles, once the hot team for National Football League coaches, played it cool Friday by rehiring Buck Shaw for a third year.
Shaw probably could have had a longer contract but said he plans to retire from coaching at the conclusion of the 1960 season. His ace quarterback, Norm Van Brocklin, is his probable successor.
The Eagles previously have notified other coaches they were through even before season's end. So it was a turnabout Friday as club President Frank McNamee announced Shaw's rehiring when the Eagles still have one game left this season.
The Eagles figured in pre-season calculations to be among the cellar dwellers in the NFL's Eastern Division. Instead they are in second place with a 7-4 record, a game ahead of the Cleveland Browns with whom they wind up Sunday.
Shaw, a veteran of nearly 40 years coaching, succeeded Hugh Devore. Others who held the job since Greasy Neale was fired in 1959—were Bo McMillan and Wayne Milner in 1951; Jim Trimble 1952-55 and Devore in 1956-57.
Shaw, 60-year-old native of Mitchellville, Iowa, said it was a "distinct pleasure to return . . . for the 1960 season, which will be my last as a football coach. This 1959 Eagles' team has great potential and is a championship team in the making."
The success of the Eagles is a tribute to Shaw. He tore them apart last year when they finished with a 2-9-1 record. Until he got the players he wanted, said Shaw, he planned to have "one team coming, one team going and one team playing."
This year, as Shaw predicted, the club was a contender.
Previously Shaw had nine years with the San Francisco 49ers before leaving the pro game. He also provided the nucleus for the first successful Air Force Academy teams.
The Eagles' coach, a star lineman at Notre Dame in 1922, where he was a classmate of Philadelphia General Manager Vince McNally, got into the coaching profession in 1922.

He served at Nevada (1922-23); North Carolina State (1924); Nevada again (1925-28); Santa Clara (1936-42); University of California (1943); 49ers (1946-54), and Air Force, (1956-57).
Now a resident of Menlo Park, Calif., Shaw has been named head coach of the Eastern pros in the annual NFL Pro Bowl Game Jan. 17 in Los Angeles.

No Bargains Planned For Tennis Pros

LONDON (AP) — Wimbledon's lawn tennis officials said Friday they will strike no financial bargain to attract the star professionals of Jack Kramer into an open Wimbledon—the tournament regarded as the unofficial world amateur championship.
"We do not intend to bargain with Kramer or anybody else," Herman David, chairman of the All-England Club which organizes Wimbledon, told a news conference.
David added that if Wimbledon became open to both pros and amateurs in 1961 then it would be run in exactly the same way as in the past.
The professionals would be offered "only what the ordinary player now gets at Wimbledon."
He went on: "I agree we probably won't get Kramer's professionals to enter but that is up to them. But I feel that in due time the big circus professionals will have to enter to uphold their claim of being the best players in the world."

McPhail Takes Over Bird Post

As expected, the board of directors elevated the 42-year-old MacPhail to the top post and named him to the ten-member board. It is expected he will continue under the three-year contract he signed when he came to the Orioles from the New York Yankee front office last year.
Keely tapped MacPhail as his successor Tuesday after announcing his resignation. Keely said he was quitting the post because of other business interests. However, he will stay on the board.

McCord To Play In Tucson Bowl

TUSCON, Ariz., (AP)—Four of the nation's outstanding backs will play in the second annual All-American Bowl at Tucson Jan. 2. Guiding the major all stars will be Fran Curci of the University of Miami and Richie Lucas of Penn State.
The small school squad will count on Sam McCord, two-time Little All-America from East Texas State, and Roger LeClerc, Little All-America selection from Trinity, Conn., College.

Bridal Party Honors Ruston Bride-Elect

Miss Minnie Garvin, of Ruston, bride-elect of William B. Holman whose wedding will be solemnized today was honored with a tea - shower on Tuesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Stewart. Co-hostesses were Mrs. M. G. Pitts of Shreveport.

Mrs. Stewart's home in Ruston was decorated with festive floral arrangements. The mirror over the fireplace reflected an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums and yellow gladioli. A milk glass compote on the coffee table held yellow chrysanthemums.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Stewart and invited into the living room where Mrs. Pitts received with Miss Garvin and her mother Mrs. Y. Garvin.

Miss Garvin chose a frock of bronze lace with satin trim and she wore bronze slippers and a yellow corsage.

flanked by a single burning white taper in silver candelabra. Mrs. Wharton Lann and Miss Lubie Sutton presided at the tea service. Mrs. Dick Taylor assisted with the courtesies.

The honoree's sister - in law, Mrs. Bernard Garvin of Shreveport, invited guests into the bedroom where the many lovely wedding gifts were displayed. A pink container of pink roses and an arrangement of dogwood and grapes in a white pitcher were placed at vantage points.

The den was decorated with a bronze and yellow bouquet of baby chrysanthemums. The bride's book was placed on a table with a burning anniversary candle. Mrs. Charles Stewart presided here.

Between five and seven o'clock seventy-five guests called.

Mangham Scene Of Party For Engaged Couple

Miss Mary Virginia Hagar and fiance, Robert Earl Bass of Bastrop, were guests of honor at a rehearsal supper given by her aunts, Mrs. H. G. Tillman, and Mrs. Evan James, in the home of Mrs. Tillman near Mangham.

Assisting in the courtesies was Mrs. Emmitt Landrum.

The buffet table was appointed in crystal. An arrangement of chrysanthemums and tall tapers completed the decor.

Present with the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Bass of Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Hagar, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bradshaw of Monroe, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ham of Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Roberts of Archibald, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Roberts of Monroe, Mrs. Jerry Lou Free and sons, Nathan and Rodney of Monroe, Terry Hagar of Monroe, Mrs. Ed Miles and Robert and Bonnie Holly Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tillman and Kyle and Sheila of Monroe, Evan James of Rayville, Miss Aurora James of New Orleans, and the Reverend Claude L. Jenkins of the Lone Cherry Baptist Church.

If you should contract a case of "Christmas shopper's feet," you'd best hasten home to a helpful remedy - for the best of the holiday season is yet to come.

Just soak your feet in warm soapsuds, followed by a shock-cold rinse under the cold-water faucet. This "cure" is delightfully simple and results are simply delightful!

Tete à Tete

ARRIVING ABOUT DECEMBER 20 to spend the Christmas holidays in their former home at 105 Lakeside Drive are the Louis K. Turners of Oklahoma City. They will be joined by their daughter and son-in-law, the Richard Dale Mackies, and Mr. and Mrs. Elton Mackie of New Orleans.

MR. AND MRS. OSCAR HARELL will entertain tomorrow afternoon with a Christmas party in their new home at 707 North 6 Street in West Monroe. Their friends are cordially invited between the hours of 3 and 6 p.m.

MR. AND MRS. SYLVESTER BREARD announce the arrival of a son, Gregory Cavet, born December 1. Maternal grandmother is Mrs. A. M. Culpepper, who is making her home for the next two years at the Hague in the Netherlands. Paternal grandmother is Mrs. Louis A. Breard of this city.

JAMES E. PALMER, 1958 graduate of Neville High School, was initiated into Phi Theta Kappa fraternity in the college auditorium of Holmes Junior College at Goodman, Mississippi, where he is a sophomore. Mr. Palmer now resides with his family, the J. C. Palmers, in Eupura, Mississippi.

ON THEIR WAY BY BOAT to Monroe are Freddie Hightower and Grant Boardman, who went to Franklin earlier in the week to purchase the boat and bring it to north Louisiana. After leaving the Atchafalaya and Black rivers, they will be joined at Harrisonburg by Dr. W. E. Smith of Monroe for the last stretch of the journey.

OES Officers Honored At Holiday Party

The officers of Louise L. McGuire Chapter No. 4, Order of Eastern Star, were honored with a dinner party at the Rendezvous on Saturday, December 5, by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Higgins, Worthy Patron and Worthy Matron of the chapter.

Following the welcome by Mrs. Higgins and invocation by Mrs. Katie Sawyer, those present enjoyed the dinner served from a gaily decorated table carrying out the Christmas theme.

A slogan quiz game was then played, after which gifts were presented to each officer.

Everyone then gathered around the piano where an arrangement of Christmas Carols and a candle lamp post created a festive scene. Christmas songs were sung by the group who included Mrs. Ethel Newport, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wyatt, Mrs. Monnie Collier, Mr. O. D. Valentine, Mrs. Arrah Culver, Mrs. Inas Gwin, Mrs. Bonnie Hales, Miss Barbara Holmes, Mrs. Katie Sawyer, Mrs. Mary Chapman, Mrs. Jean McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Neill.

Different Methods Achieve Good Results

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It would seem that if every mother did what was 'right' according to any book on child care — children would turn out to be exemplary citizens. The fact is, that if every mother did exactly the same things, each one, being an individual, would do them in such a different way that the results would be as varied as the persons themselves.

When we walk into Mrs. G.'s home we are struck by its general disorder. Mrs. G. is a good-hearted woman, always so busy she seems never able to have her whole house straightened at one time.

Her children, when small, had the same sort of graceless carelessness. Their hair always needed cutting. Their finger nails often were dirty. Their clothes were clean but unattractive. Yet they

MRS. B. DIFFERENT

Mrs. B. was of a different caliber. Her house always was spotless. She could not abide dirt or disorder and her children knew that their clothes must be picked up, their shoes clean when they entered the house.

They were models of well-dressed children at school, but she allowed them to have company, have tea parties, cut and paint and sew. Just so they 'picked up' afterwards.

Far from yelling at her children, Mrs. B. considered this ill-bred and went out of her way to be patient and sweetly reasonable. Her children minded her, as well or better than Mrs. G.'s. She had a way of exacting respect for her word.

The children of both these mothers now are grown. They are all fine children. The two daughters of disorderly Mrs. G. are meticulous housekeepers. They are married and have children who are devoted to their parents and grandmother.

Mrs. B.'s daughters are both career women and insist that they hate housework and hope never

Unusual But Useful Gifts Make A Big Hit

By VIVIAN BROWN

Why not give them something different?

Routine presents are for people who ask for them.

The husband who hints he has a gold sewing machine up his sleeve or tickets for a second honeymoon trip, and then as an afterthought produces a cash present should go without Christmas dinner. Ditto the relative who hits that a certain little needed gift is coming your way, and then produces a couple of handkerchiefs. This teasing may be unintentional, but it doesn't pay off in happiness.

Some people just can't believe that others enjoy unusual gifts because they do not have diversified interests. My own Christmas requests go unnoticed because they have become a family joke. "Microscope and chemical set," I always say, in answer to the perennial question, but umbrellas, gloves, penguins, jewelry come my way.

Favored presents last year from Southern relatives included: a dusty spice grinder, a pair of bisque figurines, a loaf of salt risin' bread, 2 lbs. of October beans and two jars of homemade chili sauce. These showed thought and resolution. The only gift that ever flabbergasted me was a Valentine's gift of a pair of hunting boots, since I was neither hunter nor woodsman. The boots forced me into the woods and now I love it.

It'll be amazing what you come up with in the way of odd gifts, if you'll take the trouble to find out what the person wants. Ask for three suggestions, and one should fit your budget.

A young homemaker wants: a shocking pink headache band, a pair of brass candlesticks, a punch bowl with cups, pruning shears, and a prayer book.

Here are some suggestions keyed to what you can observe about some people:

A girl who fusses with her hair would probably like one of the new hood and comb hair dryers. The portable unit fits in the hand or stands on the table. The comb dryer is ideal in particular for curly-haired types who do not pin curl. When the hood is used, hands are free to read a book or manicure the nails.

Does she complain often about her feet? How about a foot kit or toenail implements or a gift certificate to a good foot doctor. Overweight: What about a couple of gift sessions at a reducing salon or an album of reducing records or a book on diet and reducing (make sure she's a good sport before you emphasize a weak point).

Tickets to the theatre, opera, hockey games, special events, are other good gifts for lovers of the arts or sports. And think of special treats for hobbyists — an order for a rose bush for the gardener, antique chess men for the chess player, photography equipment, film, books for camera enthusiasts.

A mother who makes her own clothes would be pleased with cloth in her favorite color and material. Sewing kits, special sewing machine attachments are good gifts ideas for Mom. Travel books are fun for wanderlust members of the family.

There are special gifts for small fry too, including a clever little planetarium, replica of the big ones to encourage Junior astronomers.

Reporter Gives Story To Reporter

HAVANA (AP) — "I was just after a story," James Buchanan, 43, reporter for the Miami Fla. Herald, told a reporter yesterday that's what got him, arrested in connection with the escape of Frank Austin Young, also of Miami.

Buchanan was arrested Thursday by intelligence agents in the same room of the tourist hotel where Young had been picked up a short time before. Young fled an army jail in eastern Pinar del Rio Wednesday to avoid serving a 30-year sentence on charges of counterrevolutionary activities. He was sentenced Tuesday.

Buchanan said he had never seen Young before Wednesday night, and that he did not really believe the man he was interviewing was Young until Thursday morning.

He said that when he was convinced, he contacted the U.S. Embassy and planned to go there but took a bandage to Young's room before leaving the hotel, and was nabbed.

Buchanan said he had already packed and made plane reservations for Miami when arrested. He said a woman came to the Herald office in Miami Wednesday noon and said Young was in Havana.

"I arrived in Havana about 5 p.m. and contacted the woman, Evelyn Hill (no home address given)," he said.

"She led me to the St. Johns Hotel. I registered, so did she. At about 8, we went upstairs to see Young."

"About 8:30 a.m. the next day, she called me and said she was leaving for Miami. We went up to the room again and she gave him a good bundle of money," Buchanan said.

"He handed me a bill and asked me to leave it at the desk. I left the money at the desk."

Hank Hargrove, City Attorney James Harkey Jr. and architect Jack Neel.

McSherry said that the biggest item to be discussed was the proposed construction of a control tower at Selman Field.

Federal funds are available for airport expansion with municipalities joining in on a matching basis. Federal authorities have visited Monroe on the proposed plans for Selman Field.

Howard said the Monroe delegation would leave City Hall at 11 a.m. Monday and drive to Ft. Worth in time for meetings Tuesday and Wednesday with the federal officials.

The Ft. Worth meetings came as the result of a visit here last week by FAA leaders who discussed Selman Field plans with city officials at a luncheon.

Household Hints

To keep egg yolks, place them unbroken in a dish and add just enough water to cover. Put egg whites in a jar or dish and cover tightly.

Diced, unpeeled fresh apples give ham salad an interesting flavor and texture.

Soft fruits such as peaches, pears, plums, grapes, apricots, berries and cherries should be stored unwashed in refrigerator bags or in hydrator.

Set aside one "good grooming day" each week. Let the housework wait while you give yourself a shampoo, manicure, pedicure, and an extra-luxurious bath. It will pay rich dividends in good looks and improved morale.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It would seem that if every mother did what was 'right' according to any book on child care — children would turn out to be exemplary citizens. The fact is, that if every mother did exactly the same things, each one, being an individual, would do them in such a different way that the results would be as varied as the persons themselves.

When we walk into Mrs. G.'s home we are struck by its general disorder. Mrs. G. is a good-hearted woman, always so busy she seems never able to have her whole house straightened at one time.

Her children, when small, had the same sort of graceless carelessness. Their hair always needed cutting. Their finger nails often were dirty. Their clothes were clean but unattractive. Yet they were full of health and animal spirits.

Even if their mother yelled at them, as she often did, or gave them a stinging spank, they held no feeling of grievance. They knew she loved them, slaved for them, was proud as Punch of them.

MRS. B. DIFFERENT

Mrs. B. was of a different caliber. Her house always was spotless. She could not abide dirt or disorder and her children knew that their clothes must be picked up, their shoes clean when they entered the house.

They were models of well-dressed children at school, but she allowed them to have company, have tea parties, cut and paint and sew, just so they "picked up" afterwards.

Far from yelling at her children, Mrs. B. considered this ill-bred and went out of her way to be patient and sweetly reasonable. Her children minded her, as well or better than Mrs. G.'s. She had a way of exacting respect for her word.

The children of both these mothers now are grown. They are all fine children. The two daughters of disorderly Mrs. G. are meticulous housekeepers. They are married and have children who are devoted to their parents and grandmother.

Mrs. B.'s daughters are both career women and insist that they hate housework and hope never

Unusual But Useful Gifts Make A Big Hit

By VIVIAN BROWN

Why not give them something different?

Routine presents are for people who ask for them.

The husband who hints he has a gold sewing machine up his sleeve or tickets for a second honeymoon trip, and then as an afterthought produces a cash present should go without Christmas dinner. Ditto the relative who hits that a certain little needed gift is coming your way, and then produces a couple of handkerchiefs. This teasing may be unintentional, but it doesn't pay off in happiness.

Some people just can't believe that others enjoy unusual gifts because they do not have diversified interests. My own Christmas requests go unnoticed because they have become a family joke. "Microscope and chemical set," I always say, in answer to the perennial question, but umbrellas, gloves, penguins, jewelry come my way.

Favored presents last year from Southern relatives included: a dusty spice grinder, a pair of bisque figurines, a loaf of salt risin' bread, 2 lbs. of October beans and two jars of homemade chili sauce. These showed thought and resolution. The only gift that ever flabbergasted me was a Valentine's gift, of a pair of hunting boots, since I was neither hunter nor woodsman. The boots forced me into the woods and now I love it.

It'll be amazing what you come up with in the way of odd gifts, if you'll take the trouble to find out what the person wants. Ask for three suggestions, and one should fit your budget.

Here's the way one such list is shaping up: For an outdoor man... insulated underwear, a duck call (must be rosewood), an outboard motor, 12 gauge shotgun, fishing rod, 4 life preservers, an electric shoe shiner.

A young homemaker wants: a shocking pink headache band, a pair of brass candlesticks, a punch bowl with cups, pruning shears, and a prayer book.

Here are some suggestions keyed to what you can observe about some people:

A girl who fusses with her hair would probably like one of the new hood and comb hair dryers. The portable unit fits in the hand or stands on the table. The comb dryer is ideal in particular for curly-haired types who do not pin curl. When the hood is used, hands are free to read a book or manure the nails.

Does she complain often about her feet? How about a foot kit or toenail implements or a gift certificate to a good foot doctor. Overweight: What about a couple of gift sessions at a reducing salon or an album of reducing records or a book on diet and reducing (make sure she's a good sport before you emphasize a weak point).

Tickets to the theatre, opera, hockey games, special events, are other good gifts for lovers of the arts or sports. And think of special treats for hobbyists — an order for a rose bush for the gardener, antique chess men for the chess player, photography equipment, film, books for camera enthusiasts.

A mother who makes her own clothes would be pleased with cloth in her favorite color and material. Sewing kits, special sewing machine attachments are good gifts ideas for Mom. Travel books are fun for wanderlust members of the family.

There are special gifts for small fry too, including a clever little planetarium, replica of the big ones to encourage Junior astronomers.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Important You Go Back And Finish High School

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I quit high school when I was 16 because I got a chance to take a job which seemed like a lot of fun and good money. The job lasted two weeks. Over a year has passed and I haven't been able to get another job. I've left my name in over 35 places but no one has called me. There must be some type of employment (other than housework) for a girl without a high school diploma. In an interview when I say I didn't finish high school they all reply "That's too bad."

I must have a job because my father is dead and my mother is not in good health and can't work much longer. Please tell me what to do. I am desperate.—JINNY

Dear Jinny: Go back to school and get a diploma. You could sit around another year or two without employment. Your earning capacity will be greater and you'll do far better in the long run if you can tell a prospective employer you've finished high school. Then you'll also be qualified to take night school college courses which will put you even further ahead.

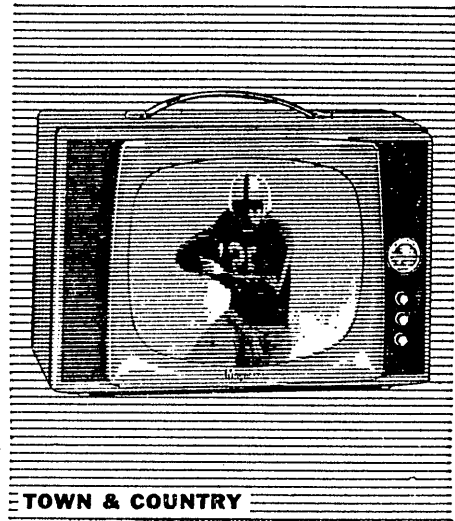

These are competitive times, a girl with a limited education can't get her nose in the tent.

College Band Sets Concert At Northeast

The Northeast Louisiana State College Band under the direction of William Kloster will present a concert Tuesday night at 8:15 in Brown Auditorium on campus.

Included in the program will be Grainger "Lincolnshire Posy." This is a work based on six folksongs collected in Lincolnshire, England, and is dedicated to the old folk singers who sang them to the composer.

Each number is intended to be a kind of musical portrait of the singer who sang its underlying melody.

FEATURED

Also featured will be Kirby Jane Mooney trumpet soloist, who will play the "Carnival of Venice." Miss Mooney, of Centralia, Ill. made her professional debut this summer with the Radio Music Hall Symphony in New York City.

The concert is open to the public.

Those in the band from the Monroe area are Elwanda Greer, Wilmer Lawson, Linda Rogers, Glenda Rogers, Margaret Killen, Marion Edwards, Phares Corder, Kenneth Stone, Marshall Lawson, Mike Brown, David Sprague, Bob Presley, Wayne Benton, Lawrence Holcomb, Ronnie Wyatt, Evelyn O'Connor, Bob O'Connor, Hillman Levie, Sandra Simpson, John Brothers, George Massingale, Linda Griggs and James Hinton of West Monroe.

Jack Reynolds of Crossett, Ark.; Alice Nyegaard, Tommy Haye and Ronnie Pace of Farmerville; Beth Brown of Tallulah; Sue Ann Payne and Stanley Hodge of Crowley; Tommy Robinson of Sterling; Billy Lingent of Oak Grove; Jerry Simon of Winnboro; and Phyllis Darling of Rayville.

Executive Kills Self After Link In $300,000 Suit

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—John E. Bing, 44, junior executive of an architectural firm, charged by a Georgia Tech senior with alienation of affections in a $300,000 suit, shot himself to death at his home Friday, police said.

His body was found by the widow in the back yard of his home in a fashionable section of northwest Atlanta.

Bing was served Thursday with a suit filed by Harold E. Gray, 29, an engineering student at Georgia Tech, claiming that Bing, old wife, Peggy, who worked as Bing's secretary.

Gray, who also is employed at the same firm, charged Bing with bestowing gifts on his wife, invited her on long trips and "directed her thoughts from a path of an affectionate and faithful wife of the plaintiff to a heart with lustful desires for the defendant."

The Grays, who have two children, have been separated since Oct. 1.

Bing, immediate past president of the Georgia section of the American Society of Civil Engineers, was born in Elkins, W. Va. He came to Atlanta from Raleigh, N.C., after serving with the Army in the Pacific.

DEAR ABBY

Cool Down, Lady—Give Him A Warm Welcome!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My husband stays home nights, but I'm sure he runs around in the daytime. I have been married to this chiseler for 32 years and I can tell.

He is almost 60 and I am 53. When I want a little affection he tells me he's tired. Of course he's tired. He gets tired from chasing women all day. He sells real estate so you know he can get around plenty and make it look all right. He tells me I am imagining things.

Our children are married and we could settle down to a happy old age together if only he would behave himself. He is a good provider and doesn't smoke, drink or gamble. Can you help me? —SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: What makes you think a man of sixty can't be tired just doing a day's work? Unless you have more than just your "hunches" to go on, you'd be wise to give your husband a warm welcome when he comes home instead of a lot of heat.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-

old boy who wishes he were dead. I feel so left out of things. I am a big failure. My teachers say "I don't apply myself" (whatever that means). My father says I think only about myself. He is probably right, too. Look at all the sentences with "I" in them. Everything I do is wrong. Is there any hope for me?—HATE MYSELF

DEAR HATE: Everyone on this earth has a duty to live. You aren't a "failure" because a real "failure" is satisfied with himself. You recognize your weaknesses and want to improve.

You need a mature, straight-thinking adult to talk things over with. Your father should be that person. But if you have a father you can't talk to (and unfortunately there are many), I suggest that you go to your coach, a favorite teacher or to your clergyman. You've won the first round. You've admitted you need help. Now, go get it! Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: It is obvious that neither you nor the person who complained that her HI-FI was too loud knows anything about HI-FI. Hi-fidelity means TRUE

Hunting Charges Placed Against Three Persons

ST. JOSEPH (Special) —Three Marksville men were arrested at 3 a.m. near here Friday on charges of illegal hunting. One man was charged with killing two doe deer.

Game agent Harvey Lee Spruill, who made the arrests, identified the trio as Aloysius Tonthier, Marvin C. Cuty and Milton Ducote. Spruill said Tonthier shot and killed two does.

Cuty and Ducote were charged with hunting at night, using a light and gun.

Spruill said he made the arrests on U. S. 63 eight miles north of St. Joseph where the deer were killed.

This brought the number of game arrests in Tensas Parish to five for the week.

Spruill arrested Henry Hart and Jerry Sasis, both of Newellton, last Sunday at 1 a.m. for illegal hunting. Spruill said they were hunting deer.

All five are scheduled to come to court.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Important You Go Back And Finish High School

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I quit high school when I was 16 because I got a chance to take a job which seemed like a lot of fun and good money. The job lasted two weeks. Over a year has passed and I haven't been able to get another job. I've left my name in over 35 places but no one has called me. There must be some type of employment (other than housework) for a girl without a high school diploma. In an interview when I say I didn't finish high school they all reply "That's too bad."

I must have a job because my father is dead and my mother is not in good health and can't work much longer. Please tell me what to do. I am desperate.—JINY

Dear Jiny: Go back to school and get a diploma. You could sit around another year or two without employment.

Your earning capacity will be greater and you'll do far better in the long run if you can tell a prospective employer you've finished high school. Then you'll also be qualified to take night school college courses which will put you even further ahead.

These are competitive times, a gal with a limited education can't get her nose in the tent.

College Band Sets Concert At Northeast

The Northeast Louisiana State College Band under the direction of William Kloster will present a concert Tuesday night at 8:15 in Brown Auditorium on campus.

Included in the program will be Grainger "Lincolnshire Posy." This is a work based on six folksongs collected in Lincolnshire, England, and is dedicated to the old folk singers who sang them to the composer.

Each number is intended to be a kind of musical portrait of the singer who sang its underlying melody.

FEATURED

Also featured will be Kirby Jane Mooney trumpet soloist, who will play the "Carnival of Venice." Miss Mooney, of Centralia, Ill. made her professional debut this summer with the Radio Music Hall Symphony in New York City.

The concert is open to the public.

Those in the band from the Monroe area are Elwanda Greer, Wilmer Lawson, Linda Rogers, Glenda Rogers, Margaret Killen, Marion Edwards, Phares Corder, Kenneth Stone, Marshall Lawson, Mike Brown, David Sprague, Bob Presley, Wayne Benton, Lawrence Holcomb, Ronnie Wyatt, Evelyn O'Connor, Bob O'Connor, Hillman Levie, Sandra Simpson and Sherree Harist of Monroe; John Brothers, George Massingale, Linda Griggs and James Hinton of West Monroe.

Jack Reynolds of Crossett, Ark.; Alice Nyegaard, Tommy Haye and Ronnie Pace of Farmerville; Beth Brown of Tallulah; Sue Ann Payne and Stanley Hodge of Crowley; Tommy Robinson of Sterlington; Billy Lingefelter of Oak Grove; Jerry Simon of Winnsboro; and Phyllis Darling of Rayville.

DEAR ABBY

Cool Down, Lady—Give Him A Warm Welcome!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband stays home nights, but I'm sure he runs around in the daytime. I have been married to this chiseler for 32 years and I can tell.

He is almost 60 and I am 53. When I want a little affection he tells me he's tired. Of course he's tired. He gets tired from chasing women all day. He sells real estate so you know he can get around plenty and make it look all right. He tells me I am imagining things.

Our children are married and we could settle down to a happy old age together if only he would behave himself. He is a good provider and doesn't smoke, drink or gamble. Can you help me? —SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: What makes you think a man of sixty can't be tired just doing a day's work? Unless you have more than just your "hunches" to go on, you'd be wise to give your husband a warm welcome when he comes home instead of a lot of heat.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-

old boy who wishes he were dead. I feel so left out of things. I am a big failure. My teachers say "I don't apply myself" (whatever that means). My father says I think only about myself. He is probably right, too. Look at all the sentences with "I" in them. Everything I do is wrong. Is there any hope for me?—HATE MYSELF

DEAR HATE: Everyone on this earth has a duty to live. You aren't a "failure" because a real "failure" is satisfied with himself. You recognize your weaknesses and want to improve.

You need a mature, straight-thinking adult to talk things over with. Your father should be that person. But if you have a father you can't talk to (and unfortunately there are many), I suggest that you go to your coach, a favorite teacher or to your clergyman. You've won the first round. You've admitted you need help. Now, go get it! Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: It is obvious that neither you nor the person who complained that her HI-FI was too loud knows anything about HI-FI. Hi-fidelity means TRUE

Hunting Charges Placed Against Three Persons

ST. JOSEPH (Special) —Three Marksville men were arrested at 3 a.m. near here Friday on charges of illegal hunting. One man was charged with killing two doe deer.

Game agent Harvey Lee Spruill, who made the arrests, identified the trio as Aloysius Tonthier, Marvin C. Cutuy and Milton Ducote. Spruill said Tonthier shot and killed two does. Cutuy and Ducote were charged with hunting at night, using a light and gun.

Spruill said he made the arrests on U. S. 65 eight miles north of St. Joseph where the deer were killed.

This brought the number of reproduction and the closer you are to it, the more it sounds like the real thing.

How quiet do you think a 100-piece symphony would sound in your living room? Anything less than this would be a plain phonograph. And who wants that?—HI-FI EXPERT

DEAR EXPERT: I, (and according to my mail, several thousand other people) want it. A 100-piece symphony in my living room would shatter the chandelier and burst my ear drums. If THAT is true HI-FI, I am going to shop for the lowest of LOW-FI.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LARRY: To borrow a very old phrase from BUDDAH: "Believe nothing, no matter where you read it, or who said it, unless it agrees with your own reason and your own common sense."

What's your problem? For a personal reply write to ABBY, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

MISS MIDNIGHT'S NOTE-book slap at the advertising industry, the disc company brass very much to play the Geraldine Page role when "Sweet Bird of Youth" becomes a movie, and the Hollywood experts believe she has the inside track ... Prince Henry of Buganda, whose marriage to a 17-year-old British art student last March caused an interracial rumpus in London, has been ordered back to the homeland by his brother, King Freddie ... You might be able to buy the screen rights to the Rodgers and Hammerstein hit, "Sound of Music," if you can write out a check for $3,000,000. MGM seems to be the studio most likely to do just that ... Jane Froman is about to write a happy new chapter to her life story. She's troupeau-shopping Imperial Records censored Tony Randall's comedy LP, "Bite and Pieces." Where he had a liked it better than "Around the World in 80 Days."

One of the most sensational revelations in the "plug" investigations will be the news that a congressional committee used to be an important TV "plug" — paid for in the usual fashion — Bob Hope's entourage is giggling over a sketch he'll do with Janis Paige on his Friday night TV show. Bob and Janis will demonstrate an evening at home with a pair of average beatniks, and those who saw them rehearse it say the result is hysterically funny.

Joan Crawford has the rigors of travel down to a science. Because she arrives at a hotel, the manager receives a mimeographed list of items Miss Crawford wants to find in her suite when she comes through the door. Included: hair dryer, iron, ironing board, oodles of facial tissues, her two favorite brands of cigarettes, 100-proof vodka, her pet champagne, and plenty of flowers.

Often when success comes in the window, Cupid is shoved out the front door. It looks as though young singer Johnny Wells might make it big in films as well as on records, so his advisors are doing everything they can to break up his romance. They're afraid it might lead to marriage, and they think the lady in question is too old for him ... East German scientists are buzzing with a prediction that Khrushchev will have a Red space station, manned by a crew of four or five, orbiting by next Summer.

Ace hoopers Leon Hillard and Ducky Moore, who pulled out of the Harlem Globetrotters' spectacular operation will form a team of their own, the Harlem Ambassadors. Joe Louis is being mentioned as one of their "backers"; does that mean he's all caught up on his income tax debt? ... Wouldn't you like to have a tape recording of the dialogue in this pad when the girls get together? Julie Newmar, Dagmar and Marilyn Maxwell are sharing a house in Las Vegas during their engagement at the Desert Inn ... Tony Pastor is recovering from an eye ailment in the gambling town.

Miss Israel of 1959, Rina Isaacov, will become the bride of Robert Kolodin, an advertising executive, on Christmas Day ... Martha Raye plans to work in the lounge of the night club she and Ned Schuyler bought in Miami Beach. That ought to make for plenty of colorful evenings ... Teddy Powell, whose musical career came to an end when he was convicted of draft-dodging some years ago, will try for a comeback heading a big dance orchestra. He hopes enough time has passed and that the public will forgive and forget the old charge.

Eight of the lambs who have outgrown their roles in "Gypsy" are currently appearing in the Christmas show at the Music Hall ... Robert Morley wants to produce Paddy Chayefsky's distinguished play, "The Tenth Man," in London ... Joey Adams, who runs the AGVA "celebrity nights" at the International, is fuming because comedians Marty Allen and Steve Rossi canceled their scheduled appearance with the excuse that they'd be working. He didn't believe it — but it was quite true; they're performing (headliners for the first time; at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, rather a far piece from Broadway. Don't you love what Londoners call supermarkets? Over there the stores are "all" encompassing food emporiums."

PAYING FOR SALESMANSHIP COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Business was really brisk at a church auction in the community health center. The auctioneer not only sold the old lamps and other objects donated by church members, she accidentally disposed of a box of toys left there for children visiting the center to play with. Church members are now raising a special fund to replace the toys — probably at retail, instead of auction, prices.

CONSOLIDATION

Dow Jones Says Market Satisfied

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street generally is satisfied to have the stock market work its way through a consolidation period at this time, Dow Jones news service said Friday.

This is particularly so, it said, as long as volume continues to contract on sell-offs and expand on rallies.

"It is reasoned that such a development would help the list to gather strength for a possible successful assault on the year's highs during a typical year-end rally."

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT Ass't. Vice President, Government Relations Division of the National Association of Manufacturers.

WASHINGTON (Special) — Industry, in general, was highly gratified by Secretary of Commerce Mueller's suggestion that decentralization of collective bargaining in basic industries be explored.

This procedure has been widely supported as a major means of curbing the highly dangerous monopoly power of giant unions. Fresh impetus for considering collective bargaining decentralization was provided by the steel strike which, until a Taft-Hartley injunction reopened the mills, threatened economic disaster to the nation.

Under decentralization, a steel company (or any other company in a basic industry) would bargain with a union representing only the employees of that company—and not with an industry-wide union with power to disrupt an entire industry.

It is certain that Secretary Mueller's statement will receive careful attention by members of Congress considering what further legislation is required to protect the nation against the evils of giant unionism.

Here are the exact words of the Secretary of Commerce on this subject, as presented in an address to the Annual Congress of the American Industry in New York on Dec. 4:

"Possibly, we might explore further whether or not it would be more in the public interest to decentralize the process of collective bargaining in basic industries so that the employer group of an individual company could bargain directly with a union representing their own employees and not be forced to deal with industry-wide unions.

"Such decentralization would tend to cement the real interests of labor and management in maintaining the individual company's competitive position in the specific industry. Such decentralization also might prevent the heads of a national or international union from calling out the almost total labor force of an entire basic industry and thus paralyzing the whole nation's economy.

"The question could then be raised whether agreement by nationwide union leaders to tie-up an entire industry is not just as much a violation of anti-monopoly principles as would be collusion on the part of business — say to fix prices. Both acts restrict competitive forces. Both acts are contrary to the national interest."

TAX REFORM Industry also was greatly pleased by Secretary Mueller's support of tax reform legislation which would remove road blocks to business expansion, in addition to providing essential revenue.

Secretary Mueller did not mention specifically the Herlong-Baker tax reform bill pending in Congress. Its enactment is strongly urged by industry as the best means of accomplishing the result sought by the Commerce Secretary.

long-Baker measure would lower personal and corporation income taxes to a maximum of 47 per cent by a series of five annual reductions.

Advocates of the measure explain that the tax relief would serve as a stimulus to business expansion, and hence would result in more revenue than would be lost by the tax cuts.

Secretary Mueller, pointing out that business is concerned with high taxes, asserted that basic tax reform should be considered which "could eliminate what are actually punitive taxes and replace them with a carefully designed program that stimulates rather than retards economic growth and new job opportunities."

"Various proposals," he added, "are before the Congress with these objectives—they should be considered in the light of the best interests of the economy and not what might be popular politically."

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

MISS MIDNIGHT'S NOTE—broad slap at the advertising industry, the disc company brass substituted a sharp thrust at disc jockeys... Bobo Rockefeller's most serious admirer is Harold Lieberman, Ben Novak's right hand man at the Fontainebleau... Comedian Joel Gray and his wife are knitting tiny garments.

Studio executives at 20th Century-Fox, who thought "Journey to the Center of Earth" would appeal chiefly to teenagers, have been startled (and delighted, of course) to note that at advance screenings the most enthusiastic critiques came from sophisticated. James Mason gives a smashing performance as Jules Verne's Scottish scientist, Arlene Dahl combines sex appeal with a quality of wit, and Pat Boone is enormously appealing as the young student. This previewer

One of the most sensational revelations in the "plug" investigations will be the news that a congressional committee used to be an important TV "plug"—paid for in the usual fashion... Bob Hope's entourage are giggling over a sketch he'll do with Janis Paige on his Friday night TV show. Bob and Janis will demonstrate an evening at home with a pair of average beatniks, and those who saw them rehearse it say the result is hysterically funny.

Joan Crawford has the rigors of travel down to a science. Before she arrives at a hotel, the management receives a mimeographed list of items Miss Crawford wants to find in her suite when she comes through the door. Included: hair dryer, iron, ironing board, oodles of facial tissues, her two favorite brands of cigarettes, 100-proof vodka, her pet champagne, and plenty of flowers.

Often when success comes in the window, Cupid is shoved out the front door. It looks as though young singer Johnny Wells might make it big in films as well as on records, so his advisers are doing everything they can to break up his romance. They're afraid it might lead to marriage, and they think the lady in question is too old for him... East German scientists are buzzing with a prediction that Khrushchev will have a Red space station, manned by a crew of four or five, orbiting by next Summer.

Ace hoopers Leon Hillard and Ducky Moore, who pulled out of the Harlem Globetrotters' spectacular operation, will form a team of their own, the Harlem Ambassadors. Joe Louis is being mentioned as one of their "backers"; does that mean he's all caught up in his income tax debt? ... Wouldn't you like to have a tape recording of the dialogue in this pad when the girls get together? Julie Newmar, Dagmar and Marilyn Maxwell are sharing a house in Las Vegas during their engagement at the Desert Inn... Tony Pastor is recovering from an eye ailment in the gambling town.

Miss Israel of 1959, Rina Isaacov, will become the bride of Robert Kolodin, an advertising executive, on Christmas Day... Martha Raye plans to work in the lounge of the night club she and Ned Schuyler bought in Miami Beach. That ought to make for plenty of colorful evenings... Teddy Powell, whose musical career came to an end when he was convicted of draft-dodging some years ago, will try for a comeback heading a big dance orchestra. He hopes enough time has passed and that the public will forgive and forget the old charge.

Eight of the lambs who have outgrown their roles in "Gypsy" are currently appearing in the Christmas show at the Music Hall... Robert Morley wants to produce Paddy Chayefsky's distinguished play, "The Tenth Man," in London... Joey Adams, who runs the AGVA "celebrity nights" at the International, is fuming because comedians Marty Allen and Steve Rossi cancelled their scheduled appearance with the excuse that they'd be working. He didn't believe it—but it was quite true; they're performing (headliners for the first time; at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, rather a far piece from Broadway).

Don't you love what Londoners call supermarkets? Over there the stores are "all-encompassing food emporiums."

PAYING FOR SALESMANSHIP COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Business was really brisk at a church auction in the community health center.

The auctioneer not only sold the old lamps and other objects donated by church members, she accidentally disposed of a box of toys left there for children visiting the center to play with.

Church members are now raising a special fund to replace the toys—probably at retail, instead of auction, prices.

CONSOLIDATION

Dow Jones Says Market Satisfied

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street generally is satisfied to have the stock market work its way through a consolidation period at this time, Dow Jones news service said Friday.

This is particularly so, it said, as long as volume continues to contract on sell-offs and expand on rallies.

"It is reasoned that such a development would help the list to gather strength for a possible successful assault on the year's highs during a typical year-end rally."

"There is no question that there is a strong background of support which not only cushions declines but enables the list to absorb offerings in the form of profit-taking. The pattern remains favorable for a continuation of a rising trend."

"The full extent of tax selling has probably not run its course," observes E. F. Hutton & Co., "and the market as a whole promises to remain highly selective."

Hutton sees in the rising price of New York Stock Exchange seats "a constructive indication that some good year-end advances are expected. The seat price has been a useful forecasting tool." But, it adds "it is only one of many indicators and is capable of being outweighed."

A seat was sold Thursday for $150,000, a $10,000 gain over the previous sale, itself, was $5,000 higher than the preceding transaction.

Time may be growing short for the supermarket checkout clerk, Vice President B. K. Wickstrum of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., said in Miami, Fla., Friday that his company is working on an automatic checking device and hopes to have it in operation next year. The machine would pick prices from fluorescent stickers on each item as it passed a scanner and relay them to a computer. It would mean a big money saving to stores, Wickstrum said.

The American Home Laundry Manufacturers Assn. predicts that factory sales of home laundry appliances will reach 5,709,000 units in 1960, topping this year's total by four per cent. This would put 1960 home laundry sales second only to 1956, when a record 6,005,051 were sold.

long-Baker measure would lower personal and corporation income taxes to a maximum of 47 per cent by a series of five annual reductions.

Advocates of the measure explain that the tax relief would serve as a stimulus to business expansion, and hence would result in more revenue than would be lost by the tax cuts.

Secretary Mueller, pointing out that business is concerned with high taxes, asserted that basic tax reform should be considered which "could eliminate what are actually punitive taxes and replace them with a carefully designed program that stimulates rather than retards economic growth and new job opportunities."

"Various proposals," he added, "are before the Congress with these objectives—they should be considered in the light of the best interests of the economy and not what might be popular politically."

Princess Slated To Marry Italian

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press International
ROME (UPI) — The beautiful princess who shared the Peacock Throne with the Shah of Iran for seven years will become a Roman Catholic and marry an Italian nobleman, informed sources said Friday.

The sources reported that ex-empress Soraya and Prince Raimondo Umberto Maria Orsini would announce their engagement at a party for 400 next Wednesday.

Vatican sources confirmed that Soraya intended to become a Catholic but they declined to say who was instructing her.

The confidential information contradicted a report published in Bonn that Soraya would marry multi-millionaire Harald Krupp, brother of German industrialist Alfred Krupp.

Whether coincidentally or not, the news of the engagement came just 10 days before the shah's scheduled third marriage, this time to 21-year-old Farah Diba, in Tehran.

The dashing shah "regretfully" divorced Soraya last year because she failed to bear him a son who could inherit the throne.

Informed sources said Orsini's 62-year-old mother would make the announcement that Soraya was converting from the Moslem religion to Catholicism and would marry the prince.

Intimates said the 28-year-old princess has been taking religious instructions for some time. One source said the teacher was a Jesuit priest.

Soraya took a villa-with-swimming pool here early this year and began holding hands with the blond, handsome prince—who is just her age—in the little restaurants on the winding streets of old Rome.

But they were worlds apart in a country which accommodates the Vatican as the seat of the Roman Catholic Church and where the state religion is Roman Catholicism.

Prince Orsini's forefathers have contributed 5 popes, 40 cardinals and 21 saints to the church.

Somewhere in the past months, intimates said, Soraya decided her love for Orsini was strong enough and her interest in the Catholic Church deep enough to forsake the Moslem faith.

Vatican sources said there would be no problem about Soraya being a divorcee. They said the church would regard her marriage to the shah as invalid since the shah's first wife, Princess Fawzia of Egypt, still was alive.

The church recognizes valid marriages between two persons of other faiths but does not recognize divorces. Thus, in the eyes of the Catholic Church, Soraya never has been married.

Two Negroes Die In Crash

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two Negro workmen were killed Friday when their automobile crashed into the rear of a 16-ton truck.

Officers identified the men as Clem Stovall, about 35, and James Edward Mazique, 38.

Officers said the accident occurred when the truck turned into an intersection to make a U-turn and the car driven by Mazique rammed into it.

Wilson Perkins, driver of the truck, was not injured, although the truck overturned.

No date has been set for Soraya's baptism and the marriage but the sources said it probably would be at least two months.

TO LEARN PUBLIC OPINION

Prof Suggests Survey Of TV

WASHINGTON (AP)—A political science professor suggested Friday the government provide millions of dollars to find out what people really want to see on television and what raises or lowers taste.

Before the Federal Communications Commission gets into the field of controlling TV programs, he said, it should find out just how programs affect the public. "We know very little now and so it is not clear what public policy ought to be," he declared. The advice came from Prof. Ihnel Poole of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one of a number of educators who have been testifying at an FCC hearing on TV this week.

The commission last month invited any interested parties to testify and numerous witnesses, paying their own expenses, have turned up to give their ideas.

Perhaps the most novel suggestion came Friday from an economics professor who proposed that the radio and TV frequencies worth "hundreds of millions of dollars" and now awarded free to licensees be sold instead of freed of government regulations, except for technical requirements.

Prof. Ronald H. Coase's idea of disposing of the publicly owned frequencies by sale or lease to the highest bidder prompted FCC Commissioner John S. Cross to inquire if the proposal was offered "in all seriousness."

The University of Virginia professor assured the FCC he was serious. He also urged the FCC to do everything possible to get subscription or pay-TV service in operation. Then, he said, those not satisfied with free TV would have somewhere else to turn.

The FCC, prohibited by law from any censorship of broadcast material, is trying to find out how it can best cope with TV and radio program problems.

Poole told the commissioners what they're getting at this hearing is just random opinion, when expert knowledge based on intensive scientific research is what is needed.

He noted that many witnesses have complained to the FCC about violence on TV and want something done about it. There is another psychological school of thought that believes viewing violence "may purge the viewer of violent feelings," Poole said. Research — "one of the most meaningful forms of government service"—is what the FCC should make its major function now, he advised.

Davis Courts Rainach Vote During Tour

MANSFIELD (Special) —Former Gov. Jimmie H. Davis had kind words to say for defeated gubernatorial candidate William M. Rainach Thursday and made it clear that he is welcoming the support of all groups and individuals with the exception of teamster boss Jimmy Hoffa and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"I know that many people in the state voted for other candidates than me, and I don't hold that against them," Davis said. "Many of you here voted for Sen. Rainach. I believed he conducted a fine campaign, and I have been friends with him for a long time. I have never differed with Sen. Rainach on the cause he supports."

"I have made it clear that I am not interested in the support of the NAACP or of Hoffa, or of any Communist-dominated organization. I am soliciting the support of every other group and faction in the state, and I think I will get that support. During the first primary I conducted my campaign in such a manner that I believe I can ask for that support."

Davis deplored the "wild accusations and unfounded charges" that are characterizing the campaign of his opponent, New Orleans Mayor DeLesseps S. Morrison. "Some people would like for me to get into a mud-slinging match during this second primary, but I have never done it in the past and I'll never do it now."

The former chief executive said his position has been consistent and clear since he opened his first primary campaign.

He said "I am not a hater. I am 100 per cent in favor of continued separation of the races, providing separate but adequate facilities for both. That was my position when I started, and it still is my position."

C. C. (Taddy) Aycock candidate for Lieut. Gov., on the Davis-Aycock ticket, urged his listeners to vote on Jan. 9th. He said their vote on that date could easily be the most important vote of their lives.

Attorney General Jack P. F. Gremling, re-elected easily in the first primary, again took off after Morrison, linking him with Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive director, Thurgood Marshall.

NAACP Chief Counsel, Paul Butler, chairman of the National Democrat Committee and teamster head James Hoffa, he charged Morrison was associated with them in their attempts to bring Louisiana under the domination of left-wing Northern elements.

Ruston Firm Gets Bid On Road Work

BATON ROUGE (Special) —T. L. James and Co. Inc. of Ruston has received a Louisiana Department of Highways contract for $708,624 for 13.5 miles of widening and overlay work along the Archibald-Winnsboro road, state route 15, in Richland and Franklin parishes.

Highway Director R. B. Richardson said plans call for grading, drainage structures, widening 18-foot existing concrete pavement to 24 feet and bituminous hot-mix surfacing.

The project begins at the junction of route 137 at Archibald and runs south to the junction of route 4, 17, and 139 at Winnsboro.

Work began December 7 and will require 16 months for completion, with the contractor required to provide for thorough and local traffic at all times.

Fred M. Hill of Monroe is the member of the State Board of Highways from the Fifth Congressional District, in which the project is located.

Richardson said H. E. Russell of Winnsboro has been assigned as project engineer, under supervision of Wayne H. Huckaby, Highway Department district engineer at Monroe.

Former Monroe Resident Dies

Funeral services for B. Lawrence Johnston, New Orleans, who was a native of Monroe, who has relatives in the area, will be held 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Peters Funeral Home chapel with Dr. W. H. McFadden officiating.

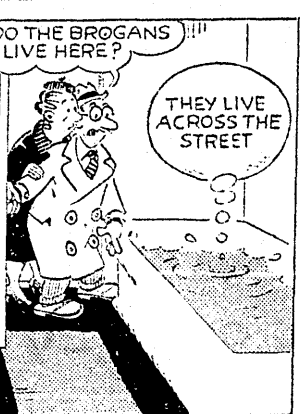

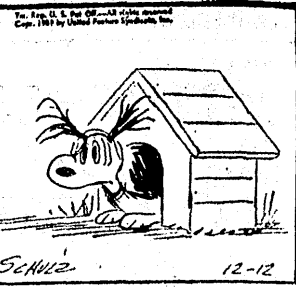

Interment will be in the Old City Cemetery.

Johnston died unexpectedly early Friday in a New Orleans Hospital.

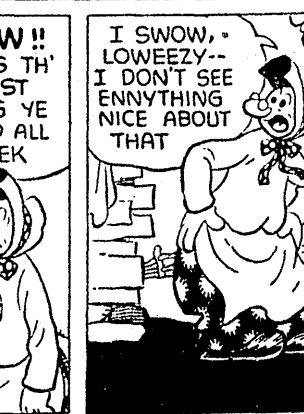

He was in the real estate business in New Orleans and had lived there for the past 35 years. He was a member of the Methodist Church, the Masonic Order and a veteran of World War I.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Lucius Hughes, Monroe; a brother, Dr. C. Brewer Johnston, Bastrop.

Ruston Firm Gets Bid On Road Work

BATON ROUGE (Special) — T. L. James and Co., Inc. of Ruston has received a Louisiana Department of Highways contract for $708,624 for 13.5 miles of widening and overlay work along the Archibald-Winnsboro road, state route 15, in Richland and Franklin parishes.

Highway Director R. B. Richardson said plans call for grading, drainage structures, widening 18-foot existing concrete pavement to 24 feet and bituminous hot-mix surfacing.

The project begins at the junction of route 137 at Archibald and runs south to the junction of route 4, 17, and 139 at Winnsboro.

Work began December 7 and will require 16 months for completion, with the contractor required to provide for through and local traffic at all times.

Fred M. Hill of Monroe is the member of the State Board of Highways from the Fifth Congressional District, in which the project is located.

Richardson said H. E. Russell of Winnsboro has been assigned as project engineer, under supervision of Wayne H. Huckaby, Highway Department district engineer at Monroe.

Former Monroe Resident Dies

Funeral services for B. Lawrence Johnston, New Orleans, who was a native of Monroe, who has relatives in the area, will be held 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Peters Funeral Home chapel with Dr. W. H. McFadden officiating.

Interment will be in the Old City Cemetery.

Johnston died unexpectedly early Friday in a New Orleans hospital.

He was in the real estate business in New Orleans and had lived there for the past 35 years. He was a member of the Methodist Church, the Masonic Order and a veteran of World War I.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Lucius Hughes, Monroe; a brother, Dr. C. Brewer Johnston, Bastrop.

Prof Suggests Survey Of TV

WASHINGTON (AP)—A political science professor suggested Friday the government provide millions of dollars to find out what people really want to see on television and what raises or lowers taste.

Before the Federal Communications Commission gets into the field of controlling TV programs, he said, it should find out just how programs affect the public.

"We know very little now and so it is not clear what public policy ought to be," he declared.

The advice came from Prof. Ihnel Poole of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one of a number of educators who have been testifying at an FCC hearing on TV this week.

The commission last month invited any interested parties to testify and numerous witnesses, paying their own expenses, have turned up to give their ideas.

Perhaps the most novel suggestion came Friday from an economics professor who proposed that the radio and TV frequencies worth "hundreds of millions of dollars" and now awarded free to licensees be sold instead and freed of government regulations, except for technical requirements.

Prof. Ronald H. Coase's idea of disposing of the publicly owned frequencies by sale or lease to the highest bidder prompted FCC Commissioner John S. Cross to inquire if the proposal was offered "in all seriousness."

The University of Virginia professor assured the FCC he was serious. He also urged the FCC to do everything possible to get subscription or pay-TV service in operation. Then, he said, those not satisfied with free TV would have somewhere else to turn.

The FCC, prohibited by law from any censorship of broadcast material, is trying to find out how it can best cope with TV and radio program problems.

Poole told the commissioners what they're getting at this hearing is just random opinion, when expert knowledge based on intensive scientific research is what is needed.

He noted that many witnesses have complained to the FCC about violence on TV and want something done about it. There is another psychological school of thought that believes viewing violence "may purge the viewer of violent feelings," Poole said.

Research — "one of the most meaningful forms of government service"—is what the FCC should make its major function now, he advised.

Charter Filings Note Growth In Northeast Area

Three domestic charters, three amendments, and one dissolution affecting area businesses have been received in the office of Wade O. Martin Jr., secretary of state, it was reported yesterday. The filings were received during the period of December 2 through December 8.

The domestic charters are: Ark-La Builders, Inc., 501 North 17th street, Monroe, steel and metal buildings, with a capital of $30,000; Pipes Trucking Company, Inc., Route 1, West Monroe, general trucking with a capital of $25,000; and the Stern Chemical Co., Inc., 208 Pearl Street, Monroe; merchandise for chemical business, with a capital of $50,000.

The domestic amendments were: Farm and Home Finance Company, Inc., Winnsboro, increasing capital stock to $140,000; Delta - Willett, Inc., of Monroe; and J. O. (Red) Willett Pipe Line Stringing Corporation, Ouachita Parish, decreasing capital stock to $60,500.

The single dissolution was the Bar C. Cattle Co. Inc., of Newellton.

4 Are Injured In Auto Crash

Four persons were injured — none seriously — in a two-car collision five miles west of West Monroe on U. S. Highway 80 Friday, State Police reported.

State police said an auto driven by Hazel K. Mott, 55, Oak Ridge school teacher, collided with a car driven by Dhu Dowling, 38, of Haughton.

Officers said the teacher evidently applied her brakes and swerved into the path of the oncoming vehicle.

She and two passengers riding in her auto, Billy Jean Carroll, 17, Oak Ridge, and Gayle Winnon, 17, Oak Ridge, plus Dowling were injured.

All were treated and released at St. Frances Hospital.

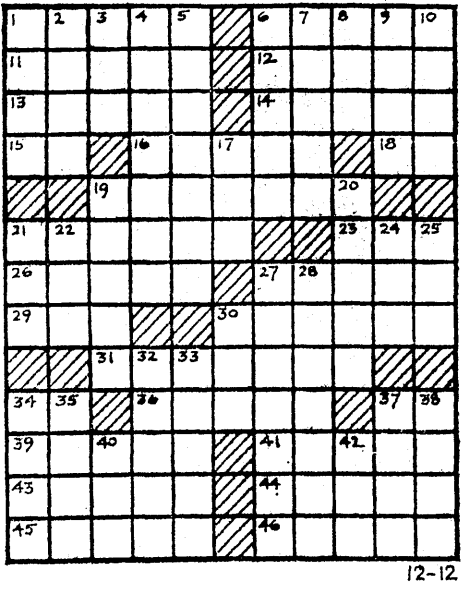

Time of the accident was set at 9:45 a.m.

Tampa Man May Have Been Killed

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An attorney said Friday he has additional evidence pointing to the possibility that a missing Tampa man was aboard a commercial plane which crashed into the Gulf of Mexico last month.

All 42 persons aboard the National Airlines plane which left Tampa on route to New Orleans died in the No. 16 accident.

Atty. Robert T. Mann said W. A. Taylor obtained an insurance policy for $37,000 from vending machine at Tampa International Airport 13 minutes before the ill-fated plane took off.

Taylor has been missing since the day of the crash. His name was not on the passenger list and NAL officials said the next of kin of all aboard have been notified.

Thomas Quizzed By Authorities After Capture

GREENVILLE, S. C. (UPI)—Joseph Lloyd Thomas, whose accomplices claim received all but $1,000 of a $34,000 Louisiana bank robbery, was questioned at length Friday by FBI agents at the Greenville County Jail.

Roy K. Moore, agent in charge of the Charlotte, N.C., office, said Thomas had waived removal to Shreveport, La., for trial. However, it was expected to be at least a day or two before the prisoner was moved from the county jail here.

Thomas, 48, a member of the FBI's exclusive "Ten most wanted" criminals club since Oct. 21, was captured without a fight Thursday night although he was armed and prepared for a possible jailbreak attempt.

The pudgy veteran of a criminal career dating back to 1928, was ordered held under $50,000 bond in connection with the Feb. 13, 1958 robbery of the Commercial National Bank of Shreveport, La.

Space Head Hits Moon

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A pioneer space scientist said Friday proposals for moon colonies are wishful thinking.

Chances of earth men living on Mars some day are much better, Dr. Hubertus Strughold told the Texas Academy of Science.

"Prospects for manned space flight look better today with much more medical experimental data available than was available 10 years ago," said Strughold, research adviser at the Air Force Aerospace Medical Center in San Antonio. The German-born physician and scientist founded the unique space medicine agency in 1949.

"It is devious and unrealistic wishful thinking to expect something like 'colonizing' in the sense of populating the moon," he said, but added: "Lunar expeditions with a temporary, even permanent, base are not beyond realistic space medical thinking."

"On Mars, many millions of miles farther away, the situation is considerably better," Dr. Strughold said. "But this celestial body, too, is not a 'second earth'—the ecological (environmental) conditions are too severe."

"The conditions on the surface of Venus are still wrapped in mystery by a dense cloud cover," he said, adding there is the possibility a space traveler to Venus might run into terrific temperatures from the sun in addition to high solar winds and radiation belts.

"If Venusian probes would prove this to be true, then Venus might be out of the race as 'an astronomical target,' he said.

He said the outer planets—Jupiter, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto—are not very inviting because, in addition to deep freeze temperatures, their atmosphere has about the same gas composition as the earth's 2½ billion years ago.

Neither the Hardin woman or the children were home at the time of the fire, firemen said. Cause of the fire was undetermined. A. G. Facen was listed as owner of the house.

The department was notified about 2:23 p.m. and all three engines that answered the call were back by 3:41 p.m.

Police officials said traffic officer Marion P. Munn motioned to Sims, alone in his car, to go ahead at a traffic signal. Sims told the officer the light was still yellow and would not move and an argument followed.

Witnesses said Munn pushed Sims from under the wheel and handcuffed him. When the officer saw the weeping man was stricken, he took off the handcuffs and rushed him to a nearby hospital.

Munn was reported near shock with police officials questioning him.

House Damaged By Blaze Here

A three room frame house occupied by Mearta Mae Hardin, Negro, and her four children on North 4th St., West Monroe, was damaged by fire Friday.

The West Monroe Fire Department said the fire started in the kitchen and that damage probably would amount to about 50 per cent loss.

Neither the Hardin woman or the children were home at the time of the fire, firemen said. Cause of the fire was undetermined. A. G. Facen was listed as owner of the house.

The department was notified about 2:23 p.m. and all three engines that answered the call were back by 3:41 p.m.

Charter Filings Note Growth In Northeast Area

Three domestic charters, three domestic amendments, and one dissolution affecting area businesses have been received in the office of Wade O. Martin Jr., secretary of state, it was reported yesterday. The filings were received during the period of December 2 through December 8.

The domestic charters are: Ark-La. Builders, Inc., 301 North 17th street, Monroe, steel and metal buildings, with a capital of $50,000; Pipes Trucking Company, Inc., Route 1, West Monroe, general trucking with a capital of $25,000; and the Stern Chemical Co., Inc., 208 Pear Street, Monroe; merchandise for chemical business, with a capital of $50,000.

The domestic amendments were: Farm and Home Finance Company, Inc., Winnboro, increasing capital stock to $140,000; Delta - Willett, Inc., of Monroe; and J. O. (Red) Willett Pipe Line Stringing Corporation, Ouachita Parish, decreasing capital stock to $50,000.

The single dissolution was the Bar C. Cattle Co. Inc., of Newellton.

4 Are Injured In Auto Crash

Four persons were injured—none seriously—in a two-car collision five miles west of West Monroe on U. S. Highway 80 Friday, State Police reported.

State police said an auto driven by Hazel K. Mott, 55, Oak Ridge school teacher, collided with a car driven by Dhu Dowling, 38, of Houghton.

Officers said the teacher evidently applied her brakes and swerved into the path of the oncoming vehicle.

Listed as one of the victims was Dr. Robert Speer of Dallas, a friend of the missing man. Mrs. Taylor said she had seen Speer and her husband together the day before the crash.

Mann noted that all of the bodies from the crash have not been recovered. "If Mr. Taylor were in the plane," the attorney said, "a

Tampa Man May Have Been Killed

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An attorney said Friday he has additional evidence pointing to the possibility that a missing Tampa man was aboard a commercial plane which crashed into the Gulf of Mexico last month.

All 42 persons aboard the National Airlines plane which left Tampa en route to New Orleans died in the No. 16 accident.

Atty. Robert T. Mann said W. A. Taylor obtained an insurance policy for $37,500 from a vending machine at Tampa International Airport 13 minutes before the ill-fated plane took off.

Taylor has been missing since the day of the crash. His name was not on the passenger list and NAL officials said the next of kin of all aboard have been notified.

"They don't know whether Taylor was there in someone else's place," the attorney said. "They don't deny that he purchased a ticket. Also, they may have been an error in counting."

Mrs. Alice Steele Taylor said her ex-husband called her about nine hours prior to the flight to say he was going to Atlanta and would return the following day. Robert Christie, sales manager for the tire firm which employed Taylor, said he also received a call from the man. He quoted Taylor as saying he was going to Atlanta and would be late reporting for work the next day.

The attorney, representing Mrs. Taylor, said the insurance policy found in Taylor's mail box "was signed by Mr. Taylor. We have verified his signature. Also, he gave his destination as Dallas."

Listed as one of the victims was Dr. Robert Speer of Dallas, a friend of the missing man. Mrs. Taylor said she had seen Speer and her husband together the day before the crash.

Mann noted that all of the bodies from the crash have not been recovered. "If Mr. Taylor were in the plane," the attorney said, "a

Space Head Hits Moon

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A pioneer space scientist said Friday proposals for moon colonies are wishful thinking.

Chances of earth men living on Mars some day are much better, Dr. Hubertus Strughold told the Texas Academy of Science.

"Prospects for manned space flight look better today with much more medical experimental data available than was available 10 years ago," said Strughold, research adviser at the Air Force Aerospace Medical Center in San Antonio. The German-born physician and scientist founded the unique space medicine agency in 1949.

"It is devious and unrealistic wishful thinking to expect some-

Baton Rouge Man Succumbs After Dispute

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Ossie C. Sims, 64, died en route to a hospital today of an apparent heart attack after a dispute with a traffic policeman in crowded pre-Christmas traffic.

Dr. Chester Williams, East Baton Rouge Parish coroner, said Sims had been under treatment for a heart condition.

Police officials said traffic officer Marion P. Munn motioned to Sims, alone in his car, to go ahead at a traffic signal. Sims told the officer the light was still yellow and would not move and an argument followed.

Witnesses said Munn pushed Sims from under the wheel and handcuffed him. When the officer saw the weeping man was stricken, he took off the handcuffs and rushed him to a nearby hospital.

Munn was reported near shock with police officials questioning him.

House Damaged By Blaze Here

A three room frame house occupied by Mearta Mae Hardin, Negro, and her four children on North 4th St., West Monroe, was damaged by fire Friday.

The West Monroe Fire Department said the fire started in the kitchen and that damage probably would amount to about 50 per cent loss.

Neither the Hardin woman or the children were home at the time of the fire, firemen said. Cause of the fire was undetermined. A. G. Facen was listed as owner of the house.

The department was notified about 2:25 p.m. and all three engines that answered the call were back by 3:41 p.m.

Latest, Nearest — Complete Unofficial ELECTION RETURNS

Was Just Another of the Usual Unusual Services of the Monroe News-Star & World

Personnel from the classified department, especially trained in the use of the telephone, were recruited to handle incoming long-distance calls from the 16 parishes giving election returns. Separate forms for each race in each parish were sent immediately to the tabulating room for computation.

Who but the News-Star & World in Northeast Louisiana would go to the trouble and expense of gathering the election returns of 16 parishes? Who but your daily newspapers has the knowhow and the organization set up to do the job in any manner in which you would have any confidence? Our far-flung organization of regular correspondents and agents in each community in our area gather the news and the facts about local happenings every day of the year . . . these capable people together with local election, Parish and City officials cooperating accounted for a smooth flow of election returns into the offices of the News-Star and World almost as soon as local totals in any race were ascertained. This coverage of the election returns is only one of the services you get throughout the year on the many facets of life and happenings in Northeast Louisiana which make the unusual just the usual for the Monroe News-Star and World.

Here's the Picture Story of Saturday Night Gathering of the Election Returns In Northeast Louisiana!

Part of the editorial staff was assigned the task of gathering state returns and telephoning Northeast Louisiana returns direct to the United Press International and the Associated Press. Five members of the staff were stationed at the Court House and relayed local returns to the office.

Gathering the election returns and getting them to the Offices of The News-Star and World is only the beginning. The pictures on this page tell the story of tabulating the returns and getting them to the people of Northeast Louisiana, the rest of the state and the nation and world at large. Tabulations were released to radio and TV stations at the same time they were sent to our news department for preparation for the readers of The Sunday World. Then came the truly fabulous job performed in record time by our mechanical departments and circulation men. We're sorry your paper was a little late Sunday morning . . . but we presumed you'd rather give up the minutes and have the news as complete as it possibly could be on Sunday morning . . . printed in your newspaper . . . the only way you can go back and review . . . compare one candidate's record with the other . . . read at your leisure at your choice of time . . . and settle arguments with your friends and neighbors. ONLY your DAILY NEWSPAPERS provides you with this kind of service!

Monroe News-Star & World

Serving the 15 Parishes of Northeast Louisiana

Bookkeeping personnel and others in our organization trained for fast business machine operation acted as tabulators of the returns gathered from all corners of the 16 Parishes. At no time were they more than minutes behind in total figures available. Man in white shirt is Executive Editor Jack Gates who supervised the operation.

Jorge Mack, KNOE radio announcer is shown broadcasting results over a direct hookup with his station. Standing is KNOE staffer Ted Kent. One other radio man plus two from KNOE-TV and a TV photographer made up the staff handling the returns for their station.
